Dear Mr. Reilly:

In your phone reply the next day, to my letter of March 30 regarding having negatives of the two sets of D&H Railroad maps scanned on to photo CD's, we agreed that you would start by producing the two Master CD's and one copy of each.

The two sets of negatives are enclosed. They should be scanned onto two CD's with the title page first and the 18 (or 23) maps in numerical order. The map numbers are either in the top left or right of the map. The maps are in the proper order and orientation in the boxes, but please check as you go. (Note that, as far as map orientation is concerned, there is no systematic placement in the envelopes, nor reference to the film notches.)

Mary Ann Moran, of the Lackawanna Historical Society, will send you either a purchase order or check (probably the latter) to cover the $602.55 cost of the Master CD's. The tax-exempt information should be included; if not I'll get to you later.

My check for $228.27 to cover the cost of the duplicate CD's ($215.35 + $12.92 tax) is enclosed.

You can hold onto the CD's until we send the order for additional duplicates. We will want at least four duplicates; five if NPS pays.

All of the materials can be sent to me at the address below.

Please contact me if there are any questions.

Thanks again for the service.

WHO'S WHO IN THE CAST

KEVIN HAMMONDS (Seymour Krelborn/Director/Choreographer) has performed and written many shows for The Corner Bistro. His most recent endeavor was Margherita's Wedding which he wrote and directed. Margherita's Wedding was a sequel to his earlier play Grandpa Tony's Funeral which also enjoyed an extended run at The Corner Bistro. Favorite roles at the Bistro include Seymour in Little Shop of Horrors, Clarence in Monky Business, Harry Witherspoon in Lucky Stiff, Ed Earl Dodd in Whorehouse, and Hysterium in A Funny Thing... Forum, for which he won last season's NEPTA award for best Supporting Actor in a Musical. Other roles Kevin has played include Claude in Hair, Richie in A Chorus Line, Rolf in The Sound of Music, and Snoopy in You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown. Later this year, Kevin will be writing and directing Another Balsamo Funeral, the long-awaited third installment of his comedy trilogy at CBDT.

DEB MISKO (Audrey/Producer) is thrilled to return to the role of Audrey, which is the first role she ever played on stage. Deb is the music teacher at Holy Rosary School in Scranton and has a private voice studio in Carbondale. She has been seen in such shows as Anything Goes, Gypsy, the Sound of Music, and the King & I. Deb was also the recipient of the 1997 NEPTA award for best actress in a musical for her portrayal of Marian in the Music Man. "Best of luck to everyone--especially my husband!"

ROBERT J. MISKO (Mister Mushnick/Producer) is thrilled to be playing the role of Mr. Mushnick once again, and happy to be working with Kevin again after having done Little Shop with him eight years ago. He has just completed a production of Grease at Valley View High School with fellow cast mates Gina, Nadine, and John (our technical director). He is looking forward to the 2000 season. He would like to thank a very talented cast, it's so nice to work with friends. As always he would like to thank his family and Deb for their love and support.

TARA PLISKA (Chiffon) is happy to be in Little Shop. She has appeared in many productions at CBDT including Grease, The Sound of Music, Nunsense, Whorehouse, and various murder mysteries. She was the 1998 recipient of the NEPTA award for Best Supporting Actress for her portrayal of Roz in Moon Over Buffalo. When Tara is not sporting a funky wig, she can be found working as ballet director at the Dave Ragnacci School of Dance in Scranton and Simpson.

GINA LUPINI (Crystal) is delighted to be making her debut at CBDT. Gina teaches in the Valley View School District where she is the high school choral director, and middle school choral & computer instructor. She is also co-director of musical theatre productions with Rob Misko. Gina is a professional vocalist and private piano instructor. This summer she will be a choral instructor for the Arts Alive Institute at the University of Scranton. She would like to thank her family for their constant support of her love of the arts.

MICHAEL ROSAR (Audrey II Puppeteer) is happy to be back at it again at the Corner Bistro for his sixth show. When not doing shows at the Bistro, he passes his time as a senior at Bishop O'Hara High School in Dunmore and works as a manager at McDonalds. Favorite rolls include Jesus in Godspell, the Minstrel in Once upon a Mattress, and Tommy Sinatra Fusco in Margherita's Wedding. He'd like to thank Rob and Deb and the whole family at the Bistro for giving him the opportunity to act, learn, and have fun with them. He looks forwards to many more shows in the future.

Candide by Voltaire

On the anniversary of one's date-of-hire it is, I think, important to evaluate carefully the environment where one spends 40 hours every week.

I began working at ICS on March 27, 1995. In recent days, therefore, I have performed my annual environmental review of 925 Oak Street (HLD) and have come to the conclusion that HLD is no longer an environment in which I am willing to toil. I will, therefore, fold my tent and silently steal away.¹

My resignation² will become effective tomorrow, March 31, 2000. To resign from a full-time job in corporate America without having another job lined up is, of course, a risky thing to do—especially for someone of my "advanced" age. But leave I will.

The only really difficult part about leaving Product Development for me will be that I will not have the pleasure of your company on a daily basis as we all make our way through life.

In casting myself adrift, as I now do by resigning, it's difficult for me not to think about (1) a wonderful observation by Thomas Szasz about boats and courage and (2) the final lines of Tennyson's Ulysses.

In 1973, in The Second Sin, "Personal Conduct," Thomas Szasz observed: "Men are afraid to rock the boat in which they hope to drift safely through life's currents, when, actually, the boat is stuck on a sandbar. They would be better off to rock the boat and try to shake it loose, or, better still, jump in the water and swim for the shore."

Alfred, Lord Tennyson's poem Ulysses takes place after Ulysses has returned from the Trojan War and after he has had time to grow bored with peace, Penelope, and politics. Here are the final 15 lines of the poem, in which Ulysses speaks to the mariners with whom he fought at Troy, mariners who, like Ulysses, are not as young as they once were:

"Come, my friends,
 'T' is not too late to seek a newer world.
 Push off, and sitting well in order smite
 The sounding furrows; for my purpose holds
 To sail beyond the sunset, and the baths
 Of all the western stars, until I die.
 It may be that the gulfs will wash us down:
 It may be we shall touch the Happy Isles,
 And see the great Achilles, whom we knew.
 Tho' much is taken, much abides; and tho'
 We are not now that strength which in old days Moved earth and heaven, that which we are, we are:
 One equal temper of heroic hearts,
 Made weak by time and fate, but strong in will
 To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

srobertpowell@juno.com

¹ Allusion to Longfellow's "The Day Is Done"

And the night shall be filled with music,
 And the cares, that infest the day,
 Shall fold their tents, like the Arabs,

I just opened and read your farewell letter late last night (Friday). Now I see what you meant when you said that that Mark Twain quote "fit so well." By selecting it, I thought I was just echoing what you said were Jim Shemanski's sentiments. (I had no idea I was being so prescient with that maritime imagery.)

But if with that quote I unknowingly complemented what you wrote at one point in your letter, I'm afraid I ignorantly wrecked what you wrote at another: you didn't "steal away" quite so silently with that raucous rooster chorus blasting out of my speakers! ;)

Anyway, I hope you're doing well, and I thought I would write to try to continue my cyber-tutoring. (Or is this cyber-harassment at this point?)

Some computer technology visionaries speculate about a future when computer users won't need to rely on their own personal machines to put the Internet to use. Instead, they'll access information from computer "appliances" sprinkled throughout their worlds. No one will own a PC anymore. Instead, everyone will use the Internet itself as his or her computer (accessed through public "portals" in libraries, waiting rooms, MAC machines, phone booths, and so on). The portals will become as commonplace as vending machines or U.S. Mail boxes. Getting to one's e-mail or visiting and updating Web pages will thus become as routine and easily done as getting water from a public water fountain or mailing a U.S. Postal Service letter

So guess what? Do you know what that makes you? That makes you a pioneer at the forefront of a burgeoning technological and sociological revolution! Freed from the moorings of your machine at work and with no computer at home, you no longer have a C drive. You now need to make the entire Internet your harbor.

Regarding this, here are four goals you may want to achieve within the next couple months.

The first thing you should do is open an e-mail account at Yahoo. Just go to <http://www.yahoo.com/> and look for an e-mail or mail icon and sign up. The name "srobert" may not be available, but there's a good chance you can get "srobertpowell@yahoo.com."

Why change? Why not just stick with "srobertpowell@juno.com?"

You know that I have Juno accounts--Johnny Socko and so forth. I spent this morning poking around my Juno Web mail and mailing myself test messages to my e-mail accounts at Juno, Yahoo, and this USA.net. Let me just sum up what I've learned:

Juno = Bad

Yahoo = Good

This USA.net account that I'm mailing from offers more storage space than Yahoo, which is the only reason I use mr.warner@usa.net. However, the Yahoo interface is designed to run much faster than USA.net's, and Yahoo is more reliable than USA.net (much more reliable than Juno).

If you switch, you will be glad you did. (On the other hand, if you don't switch, you probably won't realize what you're missing.)

Please consider getting a Yahoo account, and then e-mailing every address you have to alert people of your change from Juno to Yahoo. You don't need to drop your Juno account right away (or ever, for that matter), but I assure you that the sooner you start weaning people in your mailing list away from Juno, the better off you will be.

You don't need to take my word for it. Go to Yahoo and open an account. Look up answers to some Help questions, and e-mail some test messages (with attachments) to your Juno account. Look at some of the Yahoo mail features. Note how you can, for example, have your incoming Yahoo mail automatically forwarded to another e-mail address (I've found that this feature comes in quite handy). Now, go to your Juno Web account and prowling around its features and its Help desk. See if you can open those attachments you mailed yourself from Yahoo. I couldn't open the rooster.wav (the crowing chorus) I e-mailed to my Juno account. The other on-line e-mail programs, however, had no problem with it. I couldn't even find out how much space I'm allowed on the Juno Web mail servers and the size restrictions on Juno attachments because the Juno Help Desk was too buggy!

I expect that Juno will always be several steps behind Yahoo in terms of quality and service. Especially if you don't have your own computer and may thus need to rely on your on-line e-mail folders for storing and retrieving information, Yahoo is a much better bet than Juno.

Your second goal as a free-ranging cyber-chicken is to open a FreeDrive account.

<http://www.freedrive.com/>

This account will give you space on the Internet that you can use to, for instance, collect and store pictures and sound files and so forth that you might want to use on a Web page at some point in time or e-mail to people or just have handy. You can even store back-up copies of all the files that comprise your Web site. Essentially, it's a 50-megabyte warehouse of space that you can use just like a C-drive folder except that you'll be able to access this folder from any computer that's hooked up to the Internet. You can even set things up at FreeDrive so you can easily share stored information with selected people.

Your third goal is to be a real pioneer because I haven't even tried this next one out yet. When I had signed up for my FreeDrive several months ago, I must have said it's OK for them to e-mail me info. about my account and about anything that might interest someone who is looking to make the leap you've made in terms of abandoning the personal computer and existing solely on the Internet. Because, yesterday, FreeDrive e-mailed me a message announcing a new free service called Blink.com.

<http://www.blink.com/>

This service lets you store, organize, and access your Internet bookmarks (in other words your Favorites folder[s]) on the Internet. (Isn't that exactly what we were talking about the other day?!) You should check out Blink.com, and let me know how it works.

Your fourth goal is to get your alternate Web site address for your APA district page. I think Spree.com is your best bet for this. I've already done this with a Web site of my own--

Primary:

<http://www.crosswinds.net/~palpin/warner/main/project.htm>

Alternate:

<http://members.spree.com/education/palpin99/>

but I need to think through the process and script out some directions for you to follow. (Other people have asked me to describe how to create an alternate ["mirror"] site, so don't feel like it's an imposition for me to create these directions for you. I really would be doing it anyway.)

You can just go to Spree.com and figure the process out for yourself, but it took me hours to figure it out on my own. On the other hand, with written directions from someone who has already done it (i.e., me), it would take a person only about 15 minutes to get a duplicate Web site up and running on Spree.com.

You really do need an alternate site because Crosswinds will get buggy from time to time and it will probably cut out when you find you most need access to your Web site. Plus, having a "clone" of your site existing somewhere else on the Internet means that the content of your Web page(s) will be extra safe in case of a computer disaster. (That's something to think about when you don't have a C drive.)

You may even want to suggest to other officials who have links on the APA site that they too create and list alternate Web site addresses. Just tell them that Crosswinds is free and has no ad banner requirements.

I hope to have directions on "cloning" your Crosswinds Web site to Spree.com ready within the next week.

(Just think of those four goals as a few strokes of your oars to help you push off.)

Bye, now.

P.S.: As you probably know, "mark twain" was the traditional cry of a Mississippi riverboat leadsman who had sounded a depth of only two (twain) fathoms between the bottom of the boat and the riverbed. Apparently, that 12 feet of clearance was considered the minimum for safe passage of a steamboat with its semisubmerged paddle wheel. In other words, to hear "By the mark, twain!" called out by the leadsman is to know that the water is just deep enough for safely moving on.

Subject: Farewell Robert

Robert Powell, who has graced the department for lo these five years, will be leaving Product Development at the end of today. He is moving on to greener pastures--pastures filled with cows and chickens.

We thank Robert for all his good work and for his positive influence on the departmental esprit de corps.

For all you show tune lovers: Imagine the whole department, in chorus-line formation (step, kick, turn), belting out the finale to "A Chorus Line"--"One." (if you know the song, you'll see how well it fits Robert; if you don't know the song, I'll be glad to sing it for you.)

Goodbye Robert and best wishes for the future.

Robert,

I will miss you here at work more than I can say in front of everyone. You are my closest friend here, and I hope that we can keep in touch for many years to come.

Please know that, as you take this risk, you can count on me for anything that you might need in the months ahead. I may be stepping beyond my societal bounds here, but I want you to know that I have extra sleeping quarters in my home and that my sons, my wife, and I would love to have you stay with us. As we begin the process of educating our boys through life, I know that your presence would be great for them.

I know that you are an independent and proud man, but please don't be offended by my offer. It has been inspired as much by what I know of the lives of Thoreau and other Transcendentalists as by my own ideas about life and sticking with your friends.

Beyond this, all I can offer you is my hope that we can remain good friends, and that the tides and winds of life will allow our ships to sail together a while longer. However, if you choose instead to move to France (or an exotic French-speaking island), you had better send me a postcard, mister!

Carl

Robert,

I can form no words to express the sorrow and loss that I feel when I think of losing touch with you.

"Many people will walk in and out of your life

But only true friends will

I'm grateful for the moments
we've spent together, and I'll treasure the footprints you've left in my heart.

Love your garden, mon ami,

Robert,
I can't believe it. You're deserting us? Parting will be such sweet sorrow. Tinged with jealousy, of course. How long do you have until you depart our lives forever? Are you going to devote your life wholly to livestock now? I wish you good luck, much happiness, and tons of success. Rest assured you will be missed here.

Subject: farewell bash

Robert,

I didn't realize today's your last day. Didn't feel like sticking it out for the customary 2 weeks, eh?

Anyhow, I think we should have a farewell party for you. I sent out an e-mail earlier to several people suggesting it, and the response has been positive. My suggestion was a lunch at Catalano's, and maybe a happy hour somewhere. Not necessarily on the same day. I'd even drag myself all the way to the stadium club for you, though feel free to suggest alternatives.

The e-mail went to: Paul, Beverly, Kathy, Ginger, Sheila, Scott, and Laurie. Is there anyone else you'd like to include?

Give 'em hell at lunch today.

How's 11:30 sound for lunch?

Could you do the following before you leave?

1. Complete your paperwork and give it to me, and call Nadia to set up an exit interview for today.
2. Delete any personal files from your computer but leave all work-related files (Vet and CDS files, answer keys).
3. Write up a status report for all your projects (including any author queries for units). I'm assuming all the typeset units are on the network, but we need to know the location on your hard drive of any original files and answer keys.

I'm sending out a farewell notice, so be prepared.

Thanks.

Paul:

On Friday afternoon, at what I thought was about 3 P.M., Scott offered to help me carry boxes to my truck. We both loaded up and out we went. After we got the boxes in my truck, Scott then headed for his car and not back into the building. It was then that I realized that it was 4:45 and not 3 P.M.

When I got back to my desk, I learned that I had just missed "the rooster chorus." I regret that I wasn't there to hear it.

The blue-footed boobies have taken up residence in your in-box--as you know. They require very little care, although a couple of pounds of herring per day are much appreciated.

This e-mail is coming to you from my new office--the Carbondale Public Library. When I arrived here an hour or two ago, I was very pleased to discover two new messages in my Juno webmail: your message of April 1, and one from the guy at the APA who takes care of making revisions/updates to the APA homepage.

Thank you for the cyber-lesson. I have printed out your message and will address myself to accomplishing the four cybergoals you mention. As you know, I need lots of advice and direction when it comes to cyber-stuff. and I'll probably need additional guidance from you in order to make those four goals a reality. Stay tuned.

I have with me here copies of the bitmaps of the chicken-stuff that you created for me and will probably make an effort to add some visuals to my District 2 page before I leave here this afternoon.

The updated APA homepage <www.ampltya.com> looks great--and the link to the District 2 webpage and the e-mail link both work! Instead of giving the complete--and somewhat cumbersome--webaddress (which, of course, one doesn't have to retype, so I don't suppose it makes much difference), I think it would look better if they just put "District 2 Website" beneath my e-mail address and set up the link. I don't want to drive them crazy with revision requests at this point, so I'm not going to say anything for a little while, but I will probably make the suggestion in a few weeks. Besides, after I've had time to study the suggestions in your recent cyber-lesson, I'll probably have other revision requests to make to the APA, so I'll just hold off for a little.

The Thursday night send-off with wheat beer and oysters and pizza meant a lot. And it was nice to see the Mark Twain quotes in the poetry corner. Thank you.

See ya,

CyberBob

I agree with your assessment of the layout for your Web link. The APA Web master should consider laying out every district block in the table consistently. The blocks for District 8 and District 12 look OK. There's no reason for inconsistent layouts. (For example, why are area codes only sometimes enclosed in parentheses?)

As an alternative, the first heading in each block (District 1, District 2, and so forth) could itself be hyperlinked to the district's Web page rather than listing a separate link under the e-mail address. People will recognize the underlining and color change as a link--there's no need to use the phrase "Website." In your block, you can then put "Alternate Link" (or "District 2 (mirror)") as the only link under your e-mail address.

I'll also presently forward you the information about getting a free toll-free (answering machine) number. It may be of use to you especially if people from out of PA want to call.

P.S.: I think I've also figured out why Crosswinds occasionally fumbles the vertical line we've been using between TOC entries on our Web sites. The character for that entry, if you "view source" you can see it, is actually a 1/2 fraction displayed using Windows' Symbol font. Unfortunately, if you edit the contents of your page in Crosswinds, when you click to save the changed page, Crosswinds automatically replaces the 1/2 character with the HTML for 1/2. The problem is that you aren't really trying to display the fraction 1/2 in people's browsers. Instead you want to display the Symbol font equivalent of that fraction (which is the vertical line).

This (well-intentioned?) glitch may be only temporary. However, until (or if) Crosswinds corrects this overcorrection, you may want to consider using some other kind of mark between your TOC entries, or try to always upload your revised pages rather than making revisions in the HTML file right on the Crosswinds site. You may also be able to view source and copy and paste the 1/2 fractions from a good copy of the page back into the spots where they belong when re-editing the page that's on the Crosswinds server.

(Did any of that make sense?)

Later.

Hello Robert,

We hope that you can help us with some rather important and urgent research. To begin at the beginning: last fall Gordon and I made contact with a descendant of one of the brothers of our Rev. Henry Curtis. (Fortunately, this was in time to be included in Rev. Gordon Curtis' book, so you have no doubt seen the information.) We had expected that this branch of the family was "lost"; and have been delighted to do quite a bit of work with these folks over the winter months. Plus I had some very good breakthroughs at the Family History Center here in Pensacola.

We have just received an invitation to attend the Curtis reunion in Iowa in June and plan to attend. We understand that we will probably be the only reps from "our side", unless Rev. Gordon decides to attend.

The family we have had the most contact with is very interested in Aunt Augusta Curtis, and here is where we need your help. We want to put some displays together (similar to the Griswold one we did last summer) on the Curtises in Pennsylvania, and of course Augusta. What photos, clippings and other information might you have that would help tell this story. We can copy and return originals to you, and please trust us to do this. We want to do a special job on this project.

Our other question concerns your NE PA Griswold Reunion. Do you have a date as yet. Our calendar is filling up, but we really want to make it this year.

Your help with our Curtis project will be very much appreciated.

Regards, Gordon and Louise

Greetings all,

As some of you know, Laurie and I ran into Robert at break this afternoon. He expressed an interest in meeting for a dinner or happy hour after work some day soon, to celebrate his release from indentiture. One possible location for this would be the brewery where Melissa had her sendoff (I forget what it's called, but it's a block from the Steamtown Mall. It's airy and is supposed to have good food, and of course beer.). Another would be the ever-popular Stadium.

If anyone has any ideas, let me know. I'm thinking of next Friday. Is this good or bad for anyone? Let's make a plan, folks!

Beth

Thursday, April 6

Paul:

Through some kind of electronic magic you have somehow managed to have the message that you sent to me at <robert_powell@harcourtbrace.com> forwarded to my juno e-mail address. I didn't even know that I had a harcourtbrace e-mail address. It must have been an automatic thing.

Thanks for casting your finely-tuned editorial eye over the APA's webpage and for your comments on what is given there. I will include all of what you have suggested in my e-mail to the APA webmaster in due time.

I'll be interested to learn about how one gets a toll-free answering machine number.

I see that Elizabeth went into high gear following our chance encounter in the walking lane at ICS today. As it turns out, I had to see my tax man in center city today and he suggested a 2 P.M. meeting. So, after we had completed our highly-venal tax chat, I decided--since it was about 2:50 P.M.--that I would quickly drive to ICS and "loiter" in the parking lot and wait for--and surprise--the 3 P.M. exercise crew.

I'm open to all suggestions that might be made about where the dinner/happy hour group should meet. You have a very good track record for coming up with good places to go. That place where we went last Thursday was very nice.

I am very pleased to hear Paul's assessment of Mike. He (Mike) is an asshole and a jerk. Most of us pretend to like him only because he's the managing editor.

Robert:

All I did was blind courtesy-copy (bcc) your Juno address when I mailed that quote to your Lotus Notes account.

I was hoping you would find it an amusing postscript to your departure--the thought of that quote sitting unread in your abandoned Harcourt in-box.

And, by the way, I've learned something today. The reason Mike is able to tolerate the assholes who crowd about him is that he believes keeping the company of assholes is a mark of a politically sophisticated man who has learned how to function in society and not rock the boat. "There's a PR dimension to consider here," he told me today when I suggested we shift about a little just to see if we can get our boat free of the sandbar upon which a project was obviously grounded.

In other words, Mike is a sycophant and an ass-kisser, and that is why he tolerates assholes so well.

I'm like the opposite of Mike--I'm terribly allergic to assholes. In fact, I tolerate people in general very poorly.

As for Elizabeth's initiative, I have what most people would consider such a soured attitude about life in general that I am sure any typical, planned-out happy hour would be much happier without me.

I know that I've always clownned around quite a bit at Colleen Stepanovitch's soirées, but actually, I've always attended such "happy hours" out of that same kind of morbid curiosity that causes people to slow down and linger near a bad car accident. My curiosity is pretty much extinguished now.

Therefore, I plan to stay out of any departmental socials for the foreseeable future. It isn't you or Elizabeth or anybody in her address list; it's just me. I abhor crowds, and, for me, two people are all that's needed to make a crowd.

Here is the information I've promised about uReach.com:

uReach.com is the first and largest national, free, all-in-one communications service.

communications simpler:

- o Receive calls anywhere you want, anytime you want via a personal 800 number and the uReachMe technology!

Paul:

The thought of an e-mail message sitting unread ("When there is no vision, the people perish.") in an in-box without a keeper is surely a good topic for a cyber-drama about 21st century isolation/abandonment/destruction. I'm glad you bcc-ed it to my Juno address.

Re: Mike. Yes, yes, and yes.

To keep myself from being swallowed alive/devoured/annihilated by a vision-less/sanctimonious/self-righteous organism, I found myself running for the front door of HLD. I hardly had time to pack up. Having crossed the threshold, I feel better than I have in years.

I agree with you about departmental socials. I wish there were some way that I could avoid attending a departmental social "in my honor." What I would really like to do is to show up in a gorilla costume or disguised as Napoleon III or maybe as a trumpeter swan.

Thanks for the uReach.com address.

"yhsnk" is cyber-litter. Frequently, at the end of a typing session, I have several lines of typos and such that get pushed to the end of the document. I sometimes forget to delete them.

Believe it or not, I am too up-to-date for the Carbondale Library. Some of my electronic files, so I am told, are in Word 8 (I didn't even know word 8 existed) and the library's machines can't open them. Not too long ago, I had Carl copy some files for me and he must have Word 8 on his machine. In order to open these files, I will have to convert them back to Word 6 or 7.

A bientot.

IMPORTANT TAX INFORMATION. ATTACHED IS YOUR 1099 DIV FOR USE IN FILING YOUR TAX RETURN. Please remember, if you sold stock in the year of 1999, you will need to calculate a cost basis. In order to figure out your cost basis you must have your Associate Stock Ownership Plan Statements. If duplicate statements are needed, there is a fee of $5.00 per year for any statements prior to 1998. The maximum amount charged for multiple years is $25.00. You can obtain duplicate copies by calling Equiserve. IF YOU SOLD STOCK YOUR 1099B FORM WILL ARRIVE TO YOU IN A SEPARATE ENVELOPE SHORTLY.

Equiserve cannot calculate cost basis. If you have questions regarding cost basis please contact a tax advisor or the IRS.

Messages

For tax year 1999, clients invested in networked external mutual funds will receive two tax reports. One will come from the fund company and will reflect income and distributions for the period from January 1, 1999 up until the conversion date. The second report will be supplied from Morgan Stanley Dean Witter and will cover the period starting at the time of the conversion until December 31, 1999. Clients should retain both of these reports for their tax records. Beginning with tax year 2000, clients will receive one income and distribution report from Morgan Stanley Dean Witter.

[Carl albright from 1CS]

Carl —

The outing on Friday to the Café del Sol and the Everhart Museum was very enjoyable. It's refreshing to set aside, for a time, the all-too-familiar world of prose and travel down paths which, although not new, have the virtue of freshness. One glowed, of course, always have a valid passport and be ready to go there at a moment's notice.

You and Chiri and your sons should plan on coming over here for a visit. Your boys would probably enjoy the birds and animals. We could also hike in the woods, play in the creek, climb trees, fly a kite, have a picnic —

Go crazy.

May 13th would be a good day for me.

Robert

TO: Lackawanna County Enhancement Funding Applicants
FROM: Steve Pitoniak, Senior Planner
RE: Enhancement Funding Allotments
DATE: March 15, 2000

As you are aware, Lackawanna County received $685,860 in enhancement funds to distribute among eight applicants who had requested a total of $9,091,316 in federal funds. Even after the applications were broken out by phases, the requests for Phase 1 alone totaled $3,190,060. The Lackawanna County Commissioners recognized the significance of the projects submitted for funding and directed the planning commission to find a way to obtain additional funding for Phase 1.

The LCRPC, in conjunction with the Luzerne County Planning Commission, made a motion at the February 18th Lackawanna/Luzerne Transportation Study (LLTS) Meeting to fund the Phase 1 portions of the projects using a combination of enhancement funds and highway funds from the 2001-2004 Transportation Improvement Program (TIP). The final decision on the use of these additional funds from the TIP will be made by the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation's Central Office in Harrisburg. If the proposal is accepted the additional funding would become available after October 1st of this year. Please note the use of highway funds from the TIP for enhancement projects has never been done before in the state. We are breaking new ground, and it is possible that even if funding is approved for this year it may not be an option in the future. Also, this additional funding is for Phase 1 of your request only. You will still need to apply for additional phases in future years.

You previously received a memo dated February 4th from the Luzerne County Planning Commission outlining the Transportation Advisory Committee's (TAC) award recommendations to the LLTS. In order to award the enhancement funds with the additional highway funds, the LLTS revised the TAC recommendations to allocate both enhancement and TIP funds to all projects. This has allowed funding nearly all of the Phase 1 portions of projects and in some cases the entire project.

Attached you will find the breakouts for each project using both Enhancement and TIP funding which is different from the amounts shown in the February 4th memo. If you should have any questions on this you may contact me at 963-6400.

Actually, the reason you've never heard of Word 8 is that no such version of Word really exists.

The phrase "Word 8" is used to describe Word installations from Office 97 for Windows, which is what we had upgraded to at work, and for Word 98 installations on the MAC operating systems.

You may have noticed that it never said Word 8 whenever the program loaded on your machine at work. Instead, it said Word 97. People have decided to refer to Word 97 (for PC) and Word 98 (for MAC) as Word 8 since they are both basically the same software program. (That way, people never have to specify whether they're working in Windows or on an Apple computer when talking about what version of Word they have. They can just say, "I have Word 8.")

Unfortunately, the Carbondale Library is apparently using Office 95 and not Office 97. (I think the Albright branch has Office 97, by the way.) The Office 95 bundle contains Word 6.0/95. To open your Word 97 files in the Carbondale branch, you must either first open them in Word 97 and then save them as Word 6.0/95, or Carbondale needs to install WRD97CNV.EXE, which will allow their older version of Word (Word 6.0/95) to convert documents created in the newer version (Word 97).

You are probably not the only person in Carbondale who has created documents using Word from Office 97. Please share the following link with a librarian, and ask him or her to install the "Word 97-2000 Import Converter" (WRD97CNV.EXE) as soon as practicable.

Subject: Sample Web Page Design

Hello.

FYI: Here's a Web page the design of which I thought you might be interested in examining

<http://www.psu.edu/ur/hershey/>

The page is sensibly designed--functional and with intuitive features--but the easy-loading, easy-on-the-eyes simplicity belies some careful planning on the author's part.

Personally, I like the "More..." links that let a visitor delve further into a selected article at his or her leisure. Plus, the page's author manages to avoid having to type up a separate entry into a table of contents every time the contents is updated. With that "More..." link in place, the article title and the article's first few lines effectively serve as the TOC entry for the Web site.

Anyway, I thought you might find this example interesting as you're now officially a Web-page designer, and I expect you'll be expanding your site by leaps and bounds (probably sooner than you imagine you will). If I come across any other sites with layouts or features that might be interesting, I'll send you the URLs.

By the way, if you're still getting an annoying registry error when you try to open an .htm document in Word, it's because of the Web Authoring Tools I tried (and failed) to install. If you choose not to see about getting an Office reinstallation, let me know. I think I can identify and remove the offending line in the Windows registry.

Thank you for your time and attention.

Paul:

Today, of course, is Paul Revere Day.

Thanks for the help on how to save so-called "Word 8" files. Your directions have saved the day and all is well with my files on disc.

You would think that by not working for someone else full time that I would have plenty of time to keep ahead of the cyberstuff that I have to/want to do--like opening a Yahoo e-mail account and establishing a mirror site for my APA webpage. But I haven't had time to do so yet. I have a manila folder full of what I have labeled "Internet stuff to do." The weight of the folder seems to increase daily. I think that what I have to do is to spend an entire day in the Library and try to get ahead of the tidal wave.

I also want to get a couple of those poultry illustrations that you created for me onto the APA District 2 webpage.

The "Farewell S. Robert" event at Stirna's last Friday was enjoyable: Mike, Laurie, Marty, Scott, Vince, Ginger, Bev, Elizabeth, Denise, Patty, Donna and husband, and SRP. I don't think I've forgotten anyone.

I went to a poultry show in Delaware last weekend and was pleased to learn that some poultry people there had visited the APA District 2 website. They also said some nice things to me about the site! Many people can't believe that I was able to find a free website without advertizing. My response to such comments is always: "Well, as it turns out, I didn't find it. I have this friend Paul who knows more about this cyberstuff than anyone I know and it was he who found the Crosswinds site. . ."

See ya.

On August 24, 1999, in a letter to the Secretary of the APA, I officially declared my intention to be a candidate for the District 2 director position in the APA election that will take place in February 2000. I would appreciate your vote.

CREDENTIALS AND QUALIFICATIONS

Here are my credentials and qualifications to serve as District 2 director of the APA:

- Long-term commitment to the APA and enthusiastic promoter of its objectives. Endowment trust life membership (#102) in the APA. Author of numerous published articles that promote the APA and encourage active participation by the membership in the organization.
- Recognized breeder and exhibitor of poultry. APA Master Exhibitor #250. APA Master Breeder and Grand Master Exhibitor of standard Partridge Plymouth Rocks.
- High profile in District 2. Attend and/or exhibit at 12-15 poultry shows in District 2 every year. Currently serve as an officer of the Central Pennsylvania Avian Club and editor of the CPAC's quarterly newsletter, which has a broad circulation throughout District 2 and the region.
- Knowledgeable about poultry. APA licensed judge #1144 (standard and bantam chickens). Author of over a hundred articles on poultry history, management, and breeding—all of which have been published in the APA and ABA YEARBOOKS, Poultry Press, and elsewhere. One of only two American writers to be quoted in the recently published and highly acclaimed German encyclopedia of bantam poultry, Handbuch der Zwerghunhrassen der Welt (Verlag Wolters, Bottrop, 1998). Author of the APA mission statement on the APA's homepage on the Internet.

- Good communications skills. Professional writer and editor.
- Organizational experience. Many years of service as a member of the board of directors of various civic and community organizations.

IF ELECTED

I will represent the breeders and exhibitors of poultry in District 2 at the annual ("national") and semi-annual meetings and conventions of the APA and will write a detailed report on the exhibition-poultry shows and activities in District 2 for every issue of the APA's News and Views and for the national poultry publications. In addition, there are three projects to which I will devote a lot of time and energy:

ERRATA BOOKLET

I have already volunteered to coordinate the compilation, production, and publication of an errata booklet for the 1998 edition of the APA's American Standard of Perfection. The errors, omissions, and inconsistencies in this edition are so numerous that it is an unreliable reference work. To date, I have nine typed (single-spaced) pages of corrections that should be made to this edition. The APA should probably consider publishing an errata booklet in which the items to be corrected in the next edition are identified and correctly stated. Such a booklet could be produced and published at a nominal cost to the APA. Such an errata booklet would be inserted in all on-shelf copies of the 1998 edition that are now owned by the APA. The same errata booklet could also be made available to all persons who request one from the APA office.

APA ANNUAL MEETING AND CONVENTION IN DISTRICT 2 IN 2003

It would be very nice to have the annual meeting and convention of the APA in District 2 in 2003. Such a meet is probably too much of a job for one of the poultry clubs in District 2, but it could easily be done if two or three poultry clubs in District 2 got together and submitted a bid (before August 31, 2001) to jointly sponsor such a national meet. If I am elected District 2 director, I will work very hard to get a "national" meet of the APA in District 2 in 2003. As you may know, it was I who, in 1997, organized and hosted the visit of Martha Stewart to the Central Pennsylvania Avian Club's spring show, at which the 1997 semi-annual meet of the ABA was held. Film that was shot during that visit has been broadcast on national television three times on Martha Stewart Living.

DISTRICT 2 WEBSITE

Create and launch a District 2 webpage on the Internet. On this page, there will be a list of all poultry clubs in the district that are associate members of the APA (and which, therefore, can host APA-sanctioned meets). All APA-sanctioned shows in the district will be listed, with specific contact information for each show given. It may be possible to include the various show catalogues.

S. ROBERT POWELL Candidate for District 2 Director

Plan of Action

The raising and showing of exhibition poultry means a lot to me, and I am interested in doing everything I can to support, strengthen, and promote the hobby. If I am elected the APA District 2 director, there are five things that I will do:

REPRESENT the breeders and exhibitors of poultry in District 2 at the annual ("national") and semi-annual meetings and conventions of the APA.

WRITE a detailed report on the exhibition-poultry shows and activities in District 2 for every issue of the APA's News and Views and articles about poultry activities in District 2 for the national poultry publications and yearbooks.

HELP clarify and establish the necessary criteria for the production of a valid edition of the APA's American Standard of Perfection.

WORK very hard to get the "national" (annual) meet of the APA in District 2 in 2003. Such a meet is probably too much of a job for one of the poultry clubs in District 2, but it could easily be done if two or three poultry clubs in the district got together and submitted a bid (before August 31, 2001) to jointly sponsor such a national meet.

Credentials and Qualifications

Long-term commitment to the APA and enthusiastic promoter of its objectives. Endowment trust life membership (#102) in the APA. Author of numerous published articles that promote the APA and encourage active participation by the membership in the organization.

Recognized breeder and exhibitor of poultry. APA Master Exhibitor #250. APA Master Breeder and Grand Master Exhibitor of standard Partridge Plymouth Rocks.

High profile in District 2. Attend and/or exhibit at 12-15 poultry shows in District 2 every year. Currently serve as an officer of the Central Pennsylvania Avian Club and editor of the CPAC's quarterly newsletter, which has a broad circulation throughout District 2 and the region.

Author of the APA mission statement on the APA's homepage on the Internet.

Good communications skills. Professional writer and editor.

Organizational experience. Many years of service as a member of the board of directors of various civic and community organizations.

Let's all work together and build a strong APA for the new millennium.

APA ELECTION

TO The members of the American Poultry Association in District 2 (DE, MD, NJ, NY, PA) and elsewhere

If you were an individual member of the American Poultry Association as of December 31, 1999, a ballot for the 2000 APA election will be mailed to you by the Secretary on Tuesday, January 25, 2000. If you don't get a ballot by the first of February, contact the APA at once. It's probably a good idea to mark you ballot as soon as you receive it (before it gets lost in a pile of papers) and send it right back to the APA in the envelopes provided.

As I have mentioned in promotional materials in previous mailings, in ads in Poultry Press, and in my "candidate statement" in the current issue of the APA's News & Views, I am interested in doing everything that I can to support, strengthen, and promote the exhibition poultry hobby, and I would very much appreciate your vote.

VOTE FOR POWELL

In the many years that I have been a member of the APA, I have come into contact with a lot of very good people who work very hard to promote the vitality of the APA and to create a bright future for the organization. One of the most dedicated and enthusiastic supporters of the APA at the present time is BART PALS of Mason City, Iowa. Bart is well known in national poultry circles, having successfully served as Vice President of the APA from 1994 to 1998.

Bart Pals is a candidate for the office of president in the current APA election. I am going to vote for Bart Pals for president and I encourage you to do likewise.

Bart is very well qualified to serve as the president of the American Poultry Association. He has had significant administrative and committee experience at the highest levels of the APA, having served as Vice President of the APA for four years. During those years, in addition, he served on the APA's Finance, Ways, and Means Committee, and on the Yearbook Committee. Most significantly, with regard to the future of the American Poultry Association, it was Bart Pals who directed the initiative to create and launch the APA's webpage on the Internet.

In addition to his broad administrative and committee experience, he has the leadership skills and personality traits required to build a strong national organization and to lead the APA in the opening years of the new millennium.

VOTE FOR BART PALS

Bart is an excellent team player who has worked tirelessly for many years to identify and have corrected the errors and inconsistencies in the American Standard of Perfection. He's a prolific writer and his pro-APA articles are a regular feature of Poultry Press. He's an APA/ABA general licensed judge, an APA Grand Master Exhibitor of White Plymouth Rock bantams, and an endowment trust life member of the APA.

Bart Pals is exactly the person that we need at the head of the APA, and I urge you to cast your vote for him in the current election.

Sincerely,

S. Robert Powell

Monday morning, October 11

Gerry:

Thanks for your e-mail message of Saturday, your vote of confidence, and, ultimately, your vote in the next APA election. I am very committed to this whole exhibition poultry "thing" and I believe that I can cause a few good things to happen in District 2 if I am elected District 2 Director.

I was very pleased to read your account of Martha Stewart's reaction to the CPAC auction. Auctions such as the one at Bloomsburg and authentic country fairs--where birds and animals and humans come together in immediate and one-to-one ways--have always reminded me of "medieval" towns and markets. On about ten occasions in the course of the Martha Stewart weekend, I had the very clear impression that she was a kindred spirit.

The best part of the weekend, for me, was the hour-long ride from Bloomsburg back to the Scranton airport, where Martha Stewart's plane was waiting. We were all tired after the long and very enjoyable day. We were all glad to be "off stage" and able to relax. Conversation was easy, abundant, and personal. Astonishingly, it was like a ride home with an old friend, even though I had only met Martha just twelve hours earlier.

No, I haven't received a note from Beth Adams. I, too, hope that things get better for her quickly. She's clearly one of the "good guys."

Best regards,

S. Robert

S. Robert, I will be more than glad to vote for you. I've admired your = dedication to standard bred poultry for several years. By the way, I = was there in Bloomsberg when Martha Stewart attended. Quite a show. = Remember when she had headed off to the auction and her retinue were = left behind in the show barn? As her camera man was catching up, her = young woman producer was just returning from the sale barn to find the = rest of the crew. The cameraman asked her how the auction was, and she = said, "Medieval!" I think the crew was not as broadly experienced as = Martha.

I can't be sure from her addressee list whether you got a note from Beth = Adams about leaving the fancy. Beth is in Hobart, NY, and ran the = Cobleskill show. Hers is a big loss to show poultry in Central NY; she = had so many youth activities with poultry. I hope her situation = improves and she can return.

Regards, and I'm sure you're a shoo-in for District 2.

Dear Bob,

Thank you for the very nice rose surprise in the November issue of Poetry Press. It means a lot to me to be presented with a rose by someone such as yourself, who has enthusiastically supported and promoted the exhibition Poetry hobby for many, many years, in so many ways.

I shall treasure this rose and, one day, pass it on to another poetry fancier in the next generation.

Sincerely,

December 1, 1999

Dear Dennis:

As you probably know, Bart has thrown his hat into the APA ring as a candidate for president. Here is a copy of the e-mail that I sent Bart yesterday:

11-30-1999

Bart:

I am VERY pleased to learn that you are a candidate for the presidency of the APA. Yes, you have my wholehearted support.

It would be interesting to see the complete list of candidates for all of the districts and for vice-president.

The question that comes to my mind as I type this is: "What has to be done/what do we have to do to get the average APA member who lives in Nebraska (for example, or Rhode Island or Arkansas or anywhere else) to vote for Bart Pals in the upcoming election?" My guess is that most members of the APA have no idea who the current president is. Mr. Malone is well known in Texas and in the inner circles of the APA, but there are a heck of a lot of APA members out there who don't know him from Adam. And that's where you have a clear and definite advantage over Mr. Malone. You have name recognition, because of your many articles in "Poultry Press" and in the yearbooks. So, in a situation where the average hypothetical member of the APA doesn't know personally either you or Mr. Malone, chances are good (because you have name recognition) that the average hypothetical member of the APA will vote for you.

Your candidate statement in the Winter News & Views (deadline is December 15th to Lorna, I think) will be important and so will any kind of promotional statement about you and your candidacy that is received by potential voters before the end of January.

My guess is that there are probably about as many members in the APA who personally know Mr. Malone (his friends) as who personally know you (your friends). The people who know him will vote for him. The people who know you will vote for you. And so the "friends of" vote should come out more or less equal.

All of which suggests that Bart Pals will be elected president of the APA if we can secure the votes of three or four hundred APA members who could just as easily vote for Malone as they could for Pals.

As a candidate in District 2, I will do everything I can in District 2 to promote the candidacy of Bart Pals and to secure a couple hundred of those needed votes. My plan at present is to send out another "Vote-for-Powell" letter at the beginning of January to every member of the APA in District 2. In that letter, I will also list the reasons why I think that they (the voters in District 2) should also vote for Bart Pals. I will also send the same letter to all APA members that I know who live outside of District 2.

It seems to me that if there are at least seven or eight of us around the country who are actively promoting the candidacy of Bart Pals (you, me, Rico, Dennis, plus many others) that chances are good that you will be elected. Mr. Malone is so smug that he probably thinks that he won't have to do anything to get himself elected. And he probably won't do anything--which, of course, significantly strengthens your position.

I think you should try to get at least one article to Bill Wulff before December 10th so that the members of the APA will be reminded again (when they read the January 2000 issue of "Poultry Press") that you are the candidate for president that should get their vote. The article should, it seems to me, probably be of the kind that calls for positive action on everyone's part to make an organization (whether it be a poultry club or a local community group) better and stronger for the future, etc. etc.

As you understand, I'm sure, I say what I have just said because I think it's important to have a plan of action in such matters. Mr. Malone will not formulate such a plan, and because he won't, he will not be the next president of the APA. You will.

Robert

The ballots will be mailed by the APA on the last Tuesday in January (the 25th). Those of us who would like to see Bart elected president of the APA have less than two months to promote our candidate.

As I stated in my e-mail to Bart, I have already contacted every APA member in District 2 and asked them to vote for me. (Enclosed is a copy of the flyer that I sent out in the past couple of months.) I am going to do another mass mailing right after the first of the year. In this upcoming mailing, I am also going to include a one-page flyer, titled "Vote for Bart Pals, on which I will state why I am going to vote for Bart and why I think that they, the APA members in District 2, should also vote for Bart.

I believe I will also mail out a separate one-page flyer titled "Vote for Bart Pals" to about 100 APA members here and there around the country. These will be people who tend to show birds a lot and whose addresses I can find in the 1999 APA YEARBOOK. The lead on this flyer will be something like this:

"I am a candidate for the APA District 2 Director position in the upcoming APA election. I am writing you this letter to encourage you to vote in the upcoming APA election. Since you are not a resident of District 2, I can't ask you to vote for me. But you can vote for the president and vice president of the APA (in addition to voting for a district director in your own district). I am going to vote for Bart Pals, who is a candidate for president, and I encourage you to vote for him as well. Here are the reasons why I am going to vote for Bart Pals: . . . "

In an e-mail that I got from Bart today, he reported that there is an article from him on the American Standard of Perfection in the December issue of Poultry Press and that he will write another article for the January issue. Those articles will strengthen his already very good name recognition among readers of PP who are members of the APA--and that is good. Positive name recognition = votes.

So that's the story for today. I'd be interested to hear any ideas that you have on additional things that we can do to make sure that Bart gets elected.

Best regards,

Robert

Dear Gertrude,

Pastor Larry Thomas and I have just had a nice chat about you and we both agree that you're a pretty nice person!

Thanks for the information on Laura and Anthony Conarton.

Here's an idea: We'd like you to come here and stay for the week-end of the Griswold Reunion. Maybe one of your family can bring you down on Friday afternoon. Stay over-night and enjoy the Reunion on Saturday, and then I, or someone else, will get you home on Saturday — or if you feel like staying over on Saturday^{or well}, we'll get you home on Sunday. We've got plenty of room, and I think it would be enjoyable for all concerned.

Best regards,

Hi Robert,

We just came in from our afternoon walk. The weather is beautiful, so I'm imagine you're outside somewhere enjoying the sun and fresh air.

I'm writing because I'm unable to attend your party on Friday evening. I was out sick on Monday and Tuesday of this week and when I returned, the date and time was already established. Nick and I had already invited friends over for dinner that evening. I think I'd rather meet you for lunch some day with the "old gang" (maybe Catalano's when we can eat outside). Also, I'm still planning to call you when Nathan comes home for the summer (probably early May). I hope you'll be able to meet us for either lunch or dinner.

Enjoy your party. See you soon.

Best,

Kathy

Here's my itinerary for my Florida trip in case somebody needs to contact me:

Leave Saturday, April 29 for Key Biscayne. Just found out that I have no place to stay there! We were supposed to stay at the Sonesta Beach Hotel where the wedding will be but it's apparently all filled up and the search is on the a new place to sleep. Will be somewhere on Key Biscayne from Saturday through Tuesday morning, May 2. If necessary, I suggest you call the Sonesta - 305-361-2021 and tell them that I'm a guest at the wedding of Erik and Sabrina Gielen to be held on April 30.

On May 2 I drive to St James City to visit my aunt, Evelyn Winter. Phone is 941-283-3217. On May 5 I drive from there to Ocala Florida to visit Virginia Shelby. Phone 352-237-1529. On Sunday, May 7 it's on to Palm Beach where I will be at the Sheraton. Have no phone number there but on Monday May 8 I will be with Gail and Bob Leader - 561-871-2374. Will fly back on May 9.

If I find out where I'm resting my head on Key Biscayne, I'll let you now before I leave.

S,

I got an extra walk today, as I'm having computer trouble and they had to uninstall and reinstall MS Office, which takes quite a while (there's a silver lining, by gum!). Anyhoo, I saw an oriole in one of the flowering trees (not yours; one by the utility bldg.). I think it must have been eating bugs that were attracted by the flowers.

It pays to get out of the office.

BTW, lunch sounds good.

Hello.

I hope you are well.

About a second free host for your Web page, Virtue.nu is better than Spree. It gives you 5.5 MB of space (and more if you agree to put an ad banner on your index [home] page). That should be plenty of space for a copy of District2.htm.

Thus, Virtue.nu is an ideal second roost for your virtual chickens.

Go here and sign up for an account:

<http://www.virtue.nu/cgi-bin/home/new.cgi>

The interface at Virtue.nu for uploading files is so similar to Crosswinds', I won't even bother explaining what to do from there. I have faith in you.

Bye, now.

Paul:

Happy Birthday.

Thanks for the Virtue alternate address for my virtual chickens.

Just a few minutes ago, I made my first attempt to set up a webpage there. Naturally, I screwed up something and had to abandon ship. Later on, I'll try again.

Maybe one of these days I can meet you at the Albright library when you get out of work and you can help me with some computer matters?

Thanks for the birthday wishes, and thanks for your kind words of acknowledgement on your APA Web site. Now I'm a famous computer consultant!

I hope some security feature of the library's computer system isn't what's hampering your efforts with that other host.

Just let me know when and where you would like to meet. I think there are even a couple cybercafes in operation now in Scranton/Wilkes Barre. I would be intersted to see what the libraries and cafes have these days. It's been a long time since I've explored public computer labs, and I have a neighbor whom

I've been promising (threatening?) to introduce to the exciting World of Computing. He's put off by the prospect of shopping for and buying the "right" computer for himself, and doesn't really want to get involved with cyberculture on any personal level, but he doesn't realize that he -- like you -- can have a Web-based e-mail account, a free file storage area, and even his own free Web site without having to bring so much as a mouse pad into his life. He doesn't realize that easy access on public terminals is a reality in the USA and that it's thus possible now to reap all the benefits of the Internet without any commitment or changes in lifestyle (or household furnishings).

Later.

Dear Robert,

Today, in honor of "S", our merry band of walkers took a leisurely stroll to your tree. It's now in full bloom with vibrant pink flowers. We reminisced how you loved to sit and soak up life, apart from the doldrums of the work environment.

We are thinking of you in your absence. Hope to see you soon.

As always, Ginger

Dear Ginger:

Such pleasure it gives me to learn of your visit to "my" tree! Your tree-visit and your e-mail have made my day.

Tomorrow, I am going to do a PDQ errand at one point. Since tomorrow is Friday, maybe Chinese food (or Greek or Yugoslavian or Hungarian) would be the thing to do? Perhaps you can poll "the merry band of walkers" and "Vince & Co." and see if anything is in the air for lunch tomorrow?

I'll be at the computer for the next couple of hours and I'll check my e-mail before going home. If I don't hear from you electronically this afternoon, I'll phone you tomorrow at mid-morning to see there are plans for a lunch expedition somewhere.

In any event, I do plan to make a stop at "my" tree at some point tomorrow.

Peg:

Hope your trip went well. I'm sure you had a grand time.
You really did cover ground, it seems.

I'll bet you noticed a remarkable change in your flower garden when you got home. Things have been happening fast in the garden these days. I noted an iris bud this afternoon; also a columbine bud.

I'm about three-quarters of the way through my flower garden as far as spring weeding goes. It's fun and all that, but I must say that I am fairly fed up with that horrible purple trailing adjuga or whatever it's called. I don't know where it came from but we sure do have a lot of it.

I'll be down to see your garden one of these days.

As you probably know, I ran into your cleaning person in the Carbondale library one afternoon. We were each at a computer and worked for about two hours about three feet from each other without saying a word. From out of the blue, she suddenly asked: Are you Peg Winter's cousin?

I'll bet your pooch was glad to see you when you got home.

See ya,

S. Robert

April 10, 2000

Mr. David J. Dorworth, Chief
Site Selection & Environmental Review Branch
Federal Bureau of Prisons
U. S. Department of Justice
Washington, DC 20534

Dear Mr. Dorworth:

We appreciate the opportunity to serve as a Consulting Party in discussions on mitigating the adverse effects of the proposed United States Penitentiary in Wayne County, PA.

As the Bureau has already determined there will be an adverse effect caused by the construction of the penitentiary on two historic properties located within the proposed site (the Farview State Hospital Agricultural Complex and the Delaware and Hudson Railroad). At the same time, and very significantly, there will be an adverse effect on the property and lives of all of the residents of Canaan Township and the borough of Waymart, in particular, and Wayne County, in general, caused by the presence of the proposed penitentiary.

The four proposed mitigation measures that the Federal Bureau of Prisons has advanced relative to the proposed U. S. Penitentiary in Canaan Township, Wayne County are not only woefully inadequate but also a direct insult to the residents of Canaan Township, the borough of Waymart, and Wayne County.

The Carbondale Historical Society expects to be included in all future discussions about all issues of a historical nature that relate to the siting of the proposed penitentiary in Canaan Township.

Sincerely,

S. Robert Powell
President

MOOSIC GRANGE 1041

R. D., Waymart, PA 18472

May 15, 2000

Dear Fellow Grangers:

There will a Moosic Grange meeting on Thursday of this week (May 18) at the Grange Hall at 7:30 P.M.

An important question to be answered at this meeting is this: Do we have enough dues-paying members to keep the organization alive?

A week or so ago, I ran into Marge Treat at the Carbondale Public Library. We talked about the hard times that Granges are having these days. She reported that her Grange (Blooming Grove?) decided to sell its building, but not to disband. They continue to meet, but not in the Grange Hall. Rather, they meet in the homes of various members. Marge Treat: "If you don't disband, your Grange can keep the funds that you get from the sale of your building. We got a few thousand dollars for our building and we used it to offer scholarships to local students interested in a career in agriculture. But if you disband, the money you get from the sale of your building has to go to the state Grange."

Come to the meeting on Thursday night if you can. If you haven't paid your dues for the current year, contact the treasurer, Doris Howell, at R. R. 1, Box 1583, Waymart, PA 18472.

Sincerely,

S. Robert Powell

PRESS RELEASE

Monday, May 15, 2000, from

CARBONDALE HISTORICAL SOCIETY and MUSEUM, INC.

Post Office Box 151, Carbondale, PA 18407

Phone: 570-282-0385

Working on behalf of Carbondale's Past, Present, and Future

MAYORS' PORTRAITS TO BE UNVEILED

Plans are now complete for the unveiling in City Council Chambers of three additional portraits of mayors of Carbondale. The ceremonies, sponsored by the Carbondale Historical Society, will take place on Sunday afternoon, May 28, beginning at 2 P.M. The master of ceremonies will be the Historical Society's president, Dr. S. Robert Powell. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The three mayors whose portraits will be unveiled in these ceremonies are: J. W. Kilpatrick (1898-1902), J. J. O'Neill (1902-1905), and Joseph Vadella (1996-1997).

These portraits will become a part of the permanent exhibition of mayors' portraits in Council Chambers. The exhibition curator is Joseph Pascoe, the treasurer of the Historical Society.

Portraits of 19 of Carbondale's mayors already are on display in Council Chambers, including a photographic reproduction of an oil painting by J. W. Raught of the city's first mayor, James Archbald.

This painting is an oil on canvas that was copied by Raught from a painting by Elliott, dated 1845. The Raught painting of James Archbald was presented to the city of Carbondale by James Archbald's daughter, Mary Wodrow Archbald Catlin.

(Additional information, contact Joseph Pascoe, at 282-4234)

Hi Robert,

Nathan just arrived home yesterday (actually this morning at 1:20 A.M.). I almost didn't recognize him. (He grew a beard. These college kids!!)

I've been trying to decide the best way for us to get together. Nathan starts work tomorrow, which means lunch may not be the best time for a relaxing visit. Lunch hours are so short (at least some people's are). Your idea sounds like a good one to me. Marywood has Sunday evening outdoor concerts that start mid-June, I think. That may be a possibility. I'll talk to Nathan and let you know what he says. He may know of something that's happening sooner.

Sorry I missed your luncheon the other day. Necessary errands were calling.

See you soon.

Kathy

Well, I'm almost back to normal after my Florida adventure. Just time to whip myself into shape before I leave on June 1 for Europe. Phew! Not sure I'll do 2 big trips in a row again!

I had heard about your encounter with Diane in the library. She's a good hearted soul but you can never be sure what's going to come out of her mouth. I'm surprised that she made the connection between us.

My garden is growing with leaps and bounds. I've only begun the weeding process and had better get serious about it before the whole thing is over run! Ah well, every spring is the same.

The cottage is half open. Did enough yesterday so that Emma and I can go up for a weekend just as soon as the weather cooperates.

See you before long, I hope.

Visit Carbondale's Up-to-Date Library

By S. Robert Powell

As a part of the Lackawanna County Library System (LCLS), the Carbondale Public Library has a wide range of traditional and on-line services now available to library card holders. By presenting your card at the Carbondale Library or at any of the other 10 libraries in the county system, you can check out books, periodicals, videos, cassettes, talking books, and CD's. With your library card, you can also use the three public computers, with Internet access, that are available for library patrons.

The Carbondale Public Library also has a genealogy room that is equipped with a microfilm reader/printer. Most of the newspapers published in Carbondale during the past 170 years are available on microfilm. The Library also has a good collection of Carbondale city directories.

In addition, there are many new services which, if you have access to the Internet, you can use without ever leaving home. Just go to the library's homepage at www.albright.org/lcls. To search the card catalog, click on "Search our county-wide library catalog."

If you discover that the item that you'd like to borrow from the library is checked out or is located in another library in the county, you can now, through the Web, place a "hold" on that item when it is returned to the library and have that item sent to the Carbondale library when it is returned to the system. In the near future, an e-mail hold notification system will be fully operational and you'll be notified by e-mail that the item on which you have placed a hold is now available and ready to be picked up.

Here's how to place a hold. After doing a search of the catalog, view the complete record for the desired item. Click on "Request" and select "Place a Hold." You'll be asked for your user ID, which is the 14-digit number on the back of your library card, and your 4-digit PIN number (which you were assigned when you signed up for a library card). If you don't remember your PIN number or if you want to change your PIN number, call your local library. A list of all libraries in the LCLS is available on the system's webpage. When placing a hold, be sure you specify the library where you'd like to pick up the item when it becomes available.

You can also renew any items that you may have out of the library through the LCLS webpage, www.albright.org/lcls. Go there, and first click on "User Service" and then "Renew Items."

Through the LCLS webpage, you can also access hundreds of full-text periodicals on line. Your LCLS library card, via Access Pennsylvania Power Library, links you to full-text databases like EBSCOhost and SIRS Discoverer and Grolier Multimedia/Americana.

If you have items out of the library and you forget when they are due back, you can also check your own record from the Web.

If you're doing research on the Internet and you need assistance in getting organized, go to the library's homepage and click on "Links to Other Web Sites" and you will see a list of relevant Web sites organized by subject, including Websites of local interest.

These are just some of the traditional and on-line services now available at the Carbondale Public Library and the other 10 libraries in the Lackawanna County Library System.

The Library Director of the Carbondale facility is Anne Muldoon. Staff members are Joan Cosgrove, Marie Zacccone, Jean Castles, Frances Grecco, Dorothy Keating, Dorothy Peduto, and Francis Sarnoski. Two community volunteers, Louise Anderson and Lois Race, also help out in the Library on a regular basis.

The president of the Board of Directors of the Carbondale Library is Martin L. Langan. The other members of the Board are Robert F. Vandenberg (vice-president), Patricia Calabro (treasurer), S. Robert Powell (recording secretary), Katherine Race (corresponding secretary), James G. Burke, Bernard J. Brown, Corrine R. McNabb, the Rev. Stephen Matylewicz, Ruth Miley, Joseph Pascoe, Aubrey Staple, William Wallis, and Nicholas Mattise, Jr.

A community support group, the Friends of the Library, assists the staff and the directors to accomplish the objectives of the Carbondale Library. The president of the Friends is Maria Miley.

Pay a visit to your local library. You'll be glad you did.

- unveiled three more mayors' portraits in Carbondale's City Council Chambers: O'Neil, Fitzpatrick, and Vaddella, a wonderful success for the Historical Society.
- potted two cactus plants in clay pots and put them in my pair of brilliant blue jardinières - very beautiful; all this in memory of Grandma Russell - who had a very impressive collection of cactus plants. I have placed them on Mom's sewing machine in one of the south windows in the Circasian bedroom - which was Grandma Russell's room and then Mom's - and now mine. I will sleep therein tonight for the first time.
- planted the flower boxes on the Gray Barn foundation yesterday with "Hummingbird Red" nicotiana, "White Madness" petunias, and "Hawaii Blue" ageratum - patristic flower boxes; planted ^{yesterday} six Burpee Big Boy tomatoes + seven Beefmaster (VFV) tomatoes in my garden plot.

My hope is that I will be overwhelmed with tomatoes this summer and fall.

Also planted yesterday several seed trays with the following seeds:

- "Lumina" white pumpkins
- "Connecticut Field" pumpkins
- "Big Max" pumpkins
- "Mammoth" sunflowers
- "Sensation Mix" cosmos
- "Queen mixed" cleome
- Birdhouse gourds

I think that that will be it as far as annuals; my ^{perennial} garden out front is in perfect order and showed

5/28/2000-3

be very beautiful for the next couple of months.

980 — constructed ^{this afternoon a} "new door" for the south entrance to the barn. It's largely a "window wall" — which should be very good, winter & summer, for the birds. I've wanted to replace the earlier arrangement for several years now and decided today that time had come for action. Very satisfactory.

— went to Eldale Cemetery yesterday — no — Friday — afternoon & cut about $\frac{1}{3}$ of the cemetery. In the next several days, I'll go back & finish the job; Stopped at the Seaman's farm & gave Judy two large rolls of baling twine that I had.
Alvin was working up in the quarry and Clyde

5/28/2000 - Y 981
was somewhere tending. boy.
I visited for ten minutes with Sandy and went on my way.

- Saturday - yesterday - I drove to Bloomsburg and helped clean the poultry building following our Spring Show there. Carl Harris, Terry Arbogast & his sister, and Phil Malencare were also there. The building is now about $\frac{2}{3}$ clean. Craig Russell and Harrod Strawn were supposed to go there today and work at finishing the job.

- I now have a complete slate of new state representatives for APA District 2 and their complete names & addresses are already posted

5/28/2000 - 5

982 on the District 2 webpage — and that is a good feeling.

I must get busy and write my column for "News & Views" — deadline is June 15th.

— this coming weekend is ^{→ Saturday} the Cornell University "poetry judging" ~~show~~ that I will conduct; Sunday is the Finger Lakes Feather Club Show. This Cornell thing should be a good opportunity for me to peddle my A.P.A. wares.

— I am collecting eggs from a mating of my White Holland Torn and my Narragansett hens; one hen is now laying and two others will start to lay in a week or so.
I wonder what the poults will be from such a mating?

5/28/2000 - 6

Craig Russell would surely know. White Holland (50%) would be nice. We shall see.

- the female swan will not lay this year; she is not old enough — she has just now attained solid white plumage but her bill hasn't turned color yet; the male has built a beautiful nest in the gray barn foundation but the female will not use it; surely next year. He has settled down quite a bit — not nearly as aggressive & defensive as he was a month ago — which is good. He is still very territorial, however, and the young male swan is piled to one of the ponds on top of the hill — which suits him and me just fine.

Wonderfully successful "Poultry Judging School" at Cornell University on 6/3/00 — with SRP as the instructor. Also present were Rich Baker & Richard Langenbach. I left home about 7:15 AM and arrived at Cornell about 9:15 AM — Route 81 to Binghamton; then 17W to Owego; then 96N to Ithaca. The campus at Cornell is very beautiful and it "feels" like the academic world that it is. Very exciting. The million-dollar view of Cayuga Lake as we arrive in Ithaca is very special. There were about 20 4-H personnel and county extension agents in attendance, along with Dr. Bui (very likeable) and a 4-H official of some kind. 10 AM — noon — about judging & exhibiting and the "American Standard of Perfection" Barbeared Chicken lunch.

Then a more hands on approach to 986 judging. My birds (the ones that I showed at Syracuse on 6/4) were the "lessons". I set up my APA sales table and sold $399 worth of APA materials, including two 3-year memberships in the APA. At about 330 PM, I drove to John Rebhahn's house in Syracuse and we then went to the show hall on the Syracuse fairgrounds and got our birds into their cages. When I entered my birds in the show, I apparently filled out the wrong side of the entry form — the "junior exhibitor" side — because my birds were all entered in the junior show. Very amusing! We corrected the problem.

6/5/00 - p. 3 981

John and Georgiana Rebbuhn & I then had dinner in a Chinese restaurant. Georgiana is a professional figure skater & we had some nice skating talk at dinner.

The show on 6/4 was very nice. Lots of friendly people. Bob & Lorna Rhodes were there representing the APA, so I didn't have to set up the APA table. They were very impressed with my sales report from Cornell and I turned over $309 to Lorna ($90 of the sales total is SRP's Commission). I sold the 32 quinea keets that took to sell for $75.00 early in the day. I could easily have sold more. Also sold the 12 muscovy ducklings for $60 — 9 of them to Donna Schopac, the waterfowl

Judge. Troy Larocque judged the Standard Chickens. There were about 30 Chickens in the American Class and I was very pleased to have Champion American on a Partridge Rock hen - one that I had never shown. It was a nice hen and earned SRP 5 more master-exhibitor points, bringing my total on Partridge Rocks to 145. At the last four shows I have attended (Sussex, CPAC, B&WNY, FLFC) I have had Champion American on a Partridge Rock hen, each time earning five master exhibitor points. Those four wins were all on different hens. My ^{grand} total on master-exhibitor points on all breeds & varieties is now 290. I also won $20 for Champion

6/5/00 - p. 5⁹⁸⁹

American - $10 from the FLFC for the win, and a $10 "special" from John Hayes for "Best American". In every respect, then, the Cornell University "poultry-judging school" and the FLFC show were a very nice success.

The financial report - just for the record:

Commission on sales on APA "stuff" at Cornell Univ.	$90.00

guinea fowl sales at Syracuse	75.00

Muscovy sales at Syracuse	60.00

My garden is doing nicely. Many of the perennials in front of the house are now starting to blossom and they are very impressive — lupines, columbine, iris, poppies. The gourd, pumpkin, sunflower, cosmos, and cleome seeds that I planted a week or so ago are coming along nicely and I will have to move them from seed trays to permanent growing locations in a week or so.

My 13 tomatoe plants have settled in nicely and are starting to grow. Hail to spring/summer!

The young mute swan female, which is now one year and a couple months old, is moulting her wing and tail feathers (half brownish + half white) and will soon become all white. She is mated to the old male and nest.

6/6/00 - p. 2

Spring she showed lay. I can hardly wait! None of the Cygnets that are hatched here under my supervision will ever be pinioned. If the young choose to fly away, that will be fine. But my guess is that they won't. Such a sight it will be to see white swans flying around the valley here. Could there possibly be a more beautiful sight!

There are many 8" high oak trees in the flower beds around city hall. I will transplant many of them to the Russell Homestead property, especially in the area just across Route 106 from the house. With Donald's consent, I may plant some

on the house-side of Route 106 — the possible problem with oak trees on this side of the road is autumn leaves on the golf course. I'd love to plant lots of oak trees on this side of the road, but won't do so without DWP's consent, of course.

DWP II was here this past weekend, but I didn't get a chance to see him much, because I was out of town much of the weekend. He will be returning in a few weeks for the summer — and that will be nice. He is a joy to be around (unlike his father) and the summer should be a grand experience for him.

Hi Robert,

Having a wonderful time. Wish you were here. :)

Just writing to tell you about a Web site I found with all sorts of grammar goodies on it. One of the items explained on the site is diagramming sentences. The teacher who put the site together has diagrammed the Pledge of Allegiance. It's on the following page:

<http://webster.commnet.edu/HP/pages/darling/grammar/diagrams2/pledge.htm>

Thought you might enjoy it.

See you tomorrow at the Greek festival.

Katny

P.S. I haven't forgotten about getting you and Nathan together. He came home from school, worked for a week and a half, and is now out of town until June 6. When he comes home, we'll try to make some definite plans.

P.P.S. I have no idea why this copy is stretching across the entire page. Hope you can read it.

Spent the day in West Village, Soho & East Village.

yesterday and today I constructed a non-invasive / removable system of shelves in my curly maple armoire / linen press in the living room. Today I moved a large quantity of my fine China and silver from the "Eekdale Cabinet" in my room at the top of the stairs. And I must say that the China and silver look wonderful in the curly maple armoire. I then moved the 3-section "May" bookcase from the spot at the top of stairs down to the living room. I then moved the "Eekdale Cabinet" into the spot at the top of the stairs. The Eekdale Cabinet has double doors & 6 shelves; diagonal patterned wainscoting panels in the doors, very sturdy. I believe it's a home made piece of furniture. It was^{P. 2} in the Elkdale Baptist Church in Elkdale when I lived there and became mine. It's a beauty and I like it a lot. I will make it my bookcase, I believe.

Mary Emma (Squire) Loomis' black neo-classical mantle clock is on top of the Elkdale Cabinet. Very impressive. I love the way the cabinet looks at the top of the stairs. It tells you,
As you ascend the stairs, that you are entering a clearly articulated and formal upstairs world at the Homestead. It sets a tone, establishes a mood.
So now I have two repositories—one for China & silver; one for books. I have a lot of "special" books up in the barn. I believe I will move them into my.

lookcase. Slowly but surely ^{P. 3} I 1004 am getting some control of the inside of the house - especially on the second floor. Last week,
I washed all the windows, inside + out, and the curtains on the two front bedrooms ^{+ upstairs hall}: quite a job, as there are 9 windows. Now, dresser by dresser, I will clean out/sort through Mom's world and save what has to be saved.
The two walk-in closets in DWP II's room are crammed full of Mom's things. It will be a very interesting process to see just what's there.

When I returned from the Syracuse show last Sunday, 6/4,
I must have brought with me, on my birds, the laryngo-tracheitis virus (germ) bacteria - or Whatever it is. This past week, all of my young birds have been sick and I have lost about 15 very nice half-grown standard Partridge Rocks and Silver-Penciled Rocks and others. The "epidemic" has just about run its course, but not completely. Such a tragedy it is to watch them die & not be able to do anything about it. Not one of my old birds got sick — they are all buds that were vaccinated against L-T last year. I will vaccinate every bud I have against L-T in a couple of weeks — so they will be all set to go for the Wayne County Fair & Harford Fair.

The young Narragansetts are doing beautifully. About 25 of them now run together as as flock, and they are thriving.

I have about 20 turkey eggs under incubation — 10 under a Naragansett hen & 10 under a Buff orpington hen. I shall be anxious to see the poulets — it's a mating of several Naragansett hens and a white Holland tom.
I'm hoping for lots of white Holland poulets.

DWP's peahen (which I bought for him, along with a peacock) has laid 2 eggs — the first was cracked, the 2nd is in holding up in the barn. After she lays 4 or 5 eggs, I'll put them under a setting hen to hatch. When the eggs start to hatch, ^{we} will move the eggs to an incubator/hatcher.

6/12/00 - Planted 60 oak trees today 1007 on the property across Route 106 from the house. These were 6"-8" seedlings that were growing in the lawn/flower bed under the oak tree at the corner of 6th Avenue & Main Street in Carbondale. I saw the young trees about 10 days ago and I decided to transplant them before they got cut off by a lawn mower. Today was a perfect day for trans-planting things; yesterday and the day before it rained heavily and the ground was soaked. And today was gray & overcast. I planted the oak trees as soon as I had finished my morning chores in the barn. When I had the trees all planted, I then worked for a couple hours in my flower/vegetable garden above the gray barn foundation.
Planted in the ground - from seed tray - about 30 pumpkin plants; also a large quantity Cleome and Cosmos seedlings. a fairly large quantity of Cosmos & Cleome seedlings & planted in my formal garden in front of the house. Cleome & Cosmos should be in bloom & wonderful in late July & August when one does need an infusion of color & bloom in the garden. Most of the perennials will have blossomed by then, and new blooms will be most welcomed. The foxglove are just now starting to blossom and they will be wonderful for the next week or so - and then it will be the day lilies, and on & on. I have to find the perfect place to plant about 50 sunflower plants. My planting and gardening went on for about 4 hours.

Subject: Solstice Sojourn

Hi Robert et al,

I don't know if any plans have been made yet regarding the solstice luncheon we've been discussing, but I just wanted to let you know that Jeff and I are thinking of going to NYC this coming weekend (6/17-18), for an actual drive-in, stay at my mom's overnight trip. He actually has both days off for a change. So we won't be around for any picnics this weekend. Unless we change our minds, in which case we will be. But anyway, let's not make things too complicated.

The following Saturday, though, looks OK (6/24). I don't know if he gets any time off for July 4th or not; I imagine if he does it'd be on the actual 4th and not any other day that weekend, as Sears probably has a sale going. I don't have any other gatherings that I know of that weekend.

Thoughts?

PS--Moscow! Rah!

PPS--Have you seen Chicken Run yet? In theaters near you.

Greetings to Kindred Spirits (including Carl) one and all:

June 24th would be fine with me and so would July 4th. I think I'm more inclined to go with June 24th, probably because it's closer to the actual Summer Solstice and because July 4th gets too complicated with family commitments all around.

The day could begin at about 11 A.M. with a tour of the flower gardens and the poultry barn, a visit with the swans and the cows, etc. We could then all take a walk through the summer fields, along the babbling brook, through the woods, and up the somewhat-steep hill to Merli-Sarnoski Park (a very nice county park that adjoins our property). At Merli-Sarnoski, we could picnic, swim, commune with nature, relax.

Before we begin our walk up to Merli-Sarnoski, we will drive one vehicle up to Merli-Sarnoski and leave all the picnic stuff in that vehicle. That way, we won't have to carry anything on our walk.

All of this is subject to revision, but this is a rough draft of how I see the day.

Robert

Will someone please relay all of this information to Carl Albright so that he and his family can join this merry band of summer revelers if they are available.

6-13-00 today

initiated the poultry-bloodtesting process for this year by phoning the laboratory in Trunkhammock and finding out if next Monday, 6/19, would be a good day to deliver eggs and blood there for courier delivery to the state veterinary lab in Harrisburg. Yes, said they, as long as the blood is there before 1 P.M. In the course of the day, I then phoned the following people and told them of my plans for next Monday:

Monday: Ron Stiles

Bob Simons

Merle Pyreanson

Jonathan Potteryoy

Mark Burns

Since all of those people and I have sent in blood in previous years, we can send in eggs for a couple years — which will simplify the process a great deal. There will still be a couple of exhibitors who will have to send in blood (I may have to for the guinea fowl), but that will not be a problem. The Wayne County Fair entry deadline is early in July and if everything goes well all reports should be back ^{from Harrisburg} ^{today} in time.

Finally, I wrote ^{today} the "mitigation letter" that had to be written by the Carbondale Historical Society to the Federal Bureau of Prisons regarding the damage that the proposed penitentiary in Canaan Township will have on the roadbed of the Honesdale branch of the P & H Railroad. The value of the damages we are seeking is $116,000 (subject to revision when Jane Varcoe & Rod Brown and others review my draft of the letter.)

Tomorrow, Jane Varcoe, Rod Brown, Mary Farley, the Wayne County Commissioners, and I will do an in-person visit to the "South Canaan loop." We will do so at noon.

Sold ^{today} a trio of standard Golden Campines to Fred & Donna Cobb (son & mother) for $20; the son will show them at Harford this year. I have an old trio and a few chicks left.

Campines are beautiful birds, but they are too wild for my taste. I will probably get rid of the trio I now have some time this summer.

On my way to Waymart today, I stopped along Route 6 near Number 4 Pond and dug up some Cup-Plants (Silphium perfoliatum). These used to grow in abundance down where Morrison's Grove now stands, and I always have liked them. They are a sunflower-like plant with large ^{rough} leaves and a ^{smooth} square stem. The two upper leaves, on the 4-8 ft. plants, surround the flowering stalks to form a shallow cup. As a young person, I always remember that we got wet when we walked among the cup-plants, and it's because of the two upper leaves that form the cup. The Cup-plant is a tough survivor and very vigorous. It reminds me of Golden Glow in that it's about 8 feet tall & vigorous & yellow.

The flowers on Golden Glow, however, are like sumptuous Carnations.

^{for years} I have wanted to dig up some cup-plants and transplant them here (I put them in the plot between the inner drive & Route 106), and today I did so.

a second plant that I transplanted here from the Forest City vicinity is Common Tansy (Tanacetum vulgare). I did so late last summer and planted several plants on the bank by the Gray barn foundation. It wintered over beautifully and is growing beautifully. The other day when I was planting some pumpkin seedlings at the base of the bank, I smelled this wonderful fragrance in the air. At the time I thought it was some of the Iris plants nearby. Now I realize that it was the Common Tansy, which the Peterson guide describes as "strongly scented." I shall have to pick some leaves and dry them. The flowers are very striking: flat-topped clusters of golden buttons — of an intense yellow/gold. An entire bank of Tansy in blossom would be a sight to behold — and smell.

Summer Solstice outing, organized by S.R.P. Bev Petrini, Ginger & Paul Sosik, Ginger's sister Annmarie, Beth Thompson & S.R.P. They arrived at 11 AM & we looked at flower gardens & birds and even took a walk up to the pond on top of the hill where the young male swan is in residence.

We then came back to the house and put all our picnic "stuff" in two vehicles and drove up to Merli-Sarnoski Park, where we loaded everything ^{for the picnic} into one vehicle and came back to the Homestead, leaving the "picnic vehicle" up at the Park. We then walked up to the Park, via the cow pasture & the hill. Quite an adventure. None of my guests was quite prepared for the steep hill up to the

Park - but they all enjoyed very much the "adventure" of the climb. Before ascending the hill we paid a visit to the cows, who were deep in the woods. It appears that the old Hereford cow is pregnant, very pregnant. She will surely have a calf in the next month or so, maybe sooner. My guests enjoyed the cow visit a lot.

When we finally arrived at the top of the hill, we got the picnic "stuff" out of my truck and got the train down to the lake/pond.

We had a grand picnic on a perfect summer day. I was very pleased with the result. We have ^{been} planning this picnic for several months now - and I'm a very pleased that we had a perfect day for event. We stayed up at Merli-Sarnoski until about 7:30 PM. After we ate (over-ate) we took a walk around the pond - and that was fun. For much of the way on the far side of the lake we walked under an arbor of rhododendrons. The mountain laurel is now out in full bloom and very beautiful. Lots of yellow water lilies out in the boggy part of the pond.

When we were kids we used to go up to Merli-Sarnoski (then called "Mud Pond") to swim.
There used to be lots of beeches in the pond, and I remember that when we came out of 6/24/00 - 9

Everything looked beautiful here yesterday for my guests and that pleased me — very much.

The coming Thursday ^{6/29} is Mom's birthday — she would be 87 if she were alive. She died last October 29th at the age of 86. If I am fortunate enough to live until age 86 (30 more years) I will be very happy indeed, especially if I am able to stay in good health.

Carbondale Public Library
Meeting of the Board of Directors
April 18, 2000

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Carbondale Public Library took place on April 18, 2000, in the Board Room of the Library. The meeting was under the direction of Bob Vandenberg, vice president of the Board. Present were: Mesdames McNabb, Muldoon, Race, and Calabro; Messieurs Vandenberg, Mattise, Wallis, Matylewicz, and Powell.

The minutes of the March 2000 meeting were read by S. Robert Powell, recording secretary. It was regularly moved (McNabb) and seconded (Race) that the minutes be approved and placed on file. The motion carried.

The treasurer's report for March 2000, as prepared by the Library Director, Anne Muldoon, was read by Board treasurer, Patricia Calabro. It was regularly moved (McNabb) and seconded (Matylewicz) that the treasurer's report be approved as read and placed on file. The motion carried.

New Director. Bob Vandenberg introduced new Board member, Nicholas Mattise, Jr., and welcomed him to the Board.

OLD BUSINESS. None

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Treasury Committee. Patricia Calabro: "We're paid ahead. Our payments dropped down from $6,700 to $6,000. Maybe we could get it down to $3,000 for 20 years. Mr. Foley can explain our options. Sally Felix will talk to Marty Langan and then set up a meeting in Scranton to see what can be done about the mortgage payments." Bob Vandenberg: "There's a Pacific Tel & Tel bond for $5,000 coming due on May 1, 2000. That could be used to help pay the mortgage."

Publicity Committee. S. Robert Powell said that he would write an article for the newspapers on the services now available at the Carbondale Public Library and other libraries in the county system.

Fund Raising Committee. Several fund-raising proposals were proposed by the committee, including a "mystery dinner," to be held during the first or second week in September. The cost of the program/script on the dinner is $255. One possible site that was mentioned for the dinner is the Daily Grind. An ad book on the dinner could result in $2,000 for the Library. Two other ideas advanced are: community bake sale (suggested by Father Matylewicz) and a Washington Irving dinner. Patricia Calabro passed around copies of a draft of a fund-raising letter for the Board's approval.

Leave-a-Legacy Committee. Bob Vandenberg decided that the Leave-a-Legacy mailing will be postponed until October 2000. He will have produced a rubber stamp to use on the back of the mailing envelopes to correct the error in the Library's phone number on one of the mailing pieces.

Community Programs. On May 31st, Joseph Grandinetti, will present a program on "Our Italian Heritage" in the Carbondale Library. This program is co-sponsored by the Library and UNICO, and will be free of charge. This will be the inaugural program in the Library's 2000 series of community programs. A program on the churches of the community will take place in October. Kathryn Race suggested that a tea could be held at the Library. A special attraction of the tea could be the viewing of the videotape of the Martha Stewart Living program during which Library board member S. Robert Powell hosts a visit by Martha Stewart to the annual poultry show of the Central Pennsylvania Avian Club in Bloomsburg. The 30-minute program has been broadcast nationally several times in recent years.

Observations/comments from Nick Mattise, Jr. Mr. Mattise asked what percentage of the residents of Jermyn had Library cards for the County system. He also wondered how much the residents of Jermyn gave to the Library during the annual fund drive. The Library Director reported that those data were not immediately available. Mr. Mattise reported that the borough of Jermyn made $14,000 on their centennial ad book. Mr. Mattise: "We must get more people into the Library and we must get more money for the Library."

Friends of the Library. There is a new president of the Friends, Maria Miley. The Friends meet on the second Thursday of the month. It was suggested that the Friends conduct an annual Library Tea. The Friends have about 144 Library mugs that could be sold for $5.00 each. The cost to the Friends of each cup is $1.59. The Friends will sponsor a bus trip to Cooperstown on the last Saturday of September. There are several attractions there: James Fenimore Cooper Museum, Indian Museum, Farmers' Museum, Baseball Hall of Fame.

Building Committee. Kathryn Race said that the periwinkle in the planted area around the Library should be cleaned up. "There's lots of little papers and litter buried under the leaves," said Kathryn. Nick Mattise said that the clean up of the periwinkle might be a good project for the Boy Scouts to get involved in. "The front door has been fixed," said the Library Director. "But the lights in front of the building still have to be fixed; and we need a new flag for the pole for Memorial Day"

Library Director's Report. Anne Muldoon reported that last Friday there was a legislative breakfast at the Children's Library in Scranton. Five people from the Carbondale Library attended. There were about 60 people at the breakfast, the purpose of which was to officially thank the county politicians for their support of the county library system in the past year. The three commissioners were present, as was the county comptroller. Messrs. Stabach, Mellow, and Sherwood were also represented.

As the meeting concluded, S. Robert Powell noted that it was April 18th, Paul Revere Day. To commemorate the day, Robert read a large portion of the Longfellow poem about Paul Revere's famous ride on April 18, 1775.

It was then regularly moved (Matylewicz) and seconded (Calabro) that the meeting be adjourned. The motion carried and the meeting was adjourned at 9:07 P.M.

Respectfully submitted,

S. Robert Powell
Recording Secretary

Drove to Elkdale about 11 A.M. to finish cutting the cemetery there. About $\frac{1}{5}$ of the Cemetery was knee-high when I had finished my second work session there. To my complete surprise, Clyde Seamans had cut the entire Cemetery a few days ago and also + Clyde had placed three giant rocks near the lower entrance to prevent the stone-wall thief from taking any more of the beautiful old wall at the cemetery. Such a nice thing for them to do. When I arrived at the Cemetery, I was feeling a bit overwhelmed by the enormity of the job and was somewhat down in spirits. When I became aware of what they had done, my faith in mankind was again restored. "There are," said I, "still some good hearted people left in the world." I trimmed around the stones in the Cemetery with the rotary mower and made it all look neat and trimmed. In about 2 hours, the job was done. Now all that remains to be done is the fine tuning with the weed wacker.

When I had finished my 2-hour session, I went to the Seaman's house to thank Alvin & Clyde.

They were not home. Sandy said that they were working stone at a place in Halstead. They go there after morning chores, about 8 A.M., and stay all day, returning home about 5 P.M.

I'll have to go over some evening and offer to pay Clyde for the good deeds. My guess is that he will say "no" to my offer to pay him; but offer to do so, I will.

Spent several hours sorting through "stuff" in my bedroom (where there is no bed) at the top of the stairs. I have established an entrance area made up of the two Eleanor Jones Cherry dressers — facing each other. Lovely carpet from 14 Dart Avenue between them. The west end of the "bedroom" is my study / desk) work place. It's all shaping up nicely and in a few days all will be in order. I am obsessed these days with neatness and order — and it feels good. So I will play it for all its worth. I'm doing the same thing at the Historical Society.

11:00 P.M. — DWP II arrived for the summer. He is growing so fast that I can easily see the difference in his size from the last time he was here — several weeks ago. He is now 5'8" tall, and he will probably be as tall as DWP + me when he is finished growing.

Took eggs for testing to the state lab office in Tunkhannock this morning. They will send the eggs down to Harrisburg via their special courier, which is a great help to me. No more sending eggs and blood via the U. S.

Postal service. Eggs were sent today from:

Around mid-evening, I started to make oatmeal cookies and when DWP I & II arrived at about 11 P.M., the last batch was coming out of the oven. I think it's very important that the house be filled with pleasant food smells when DWP II arrives.

With any luck, he should associate these pleasant food smells with this house for the rest of his life. I also made up his bed, beautifully, and cleaned his room this afternoon. Cleanliness, order, tradition, tranquility, ease—these are the associations I want to fix in his mind.

Writing English by Ear

Using language only heard, not seen, for all intensive purposes means guessing.

by Paul Brians

People probably don't spell much worse, on average, than they ever did, and El Niño can't be blamed for causing mass mangling of everything from idiomatic expressions to professional jargon. But the fact is that people nowadays absorb most of their language through their ears—a fact that has consequences for editors and for the quality of published writing.

Increasingly, education and entertainment come from visual and aural media instead of from reading. To the majority of Americans, "the news" means not the evening paper but the evening television broadcast. (Television is more heard than viewed, so the spelled-out phrases on the screen don't help much—and they're riddled with typos.)

This trend means that people who learn English almost exclusively by ear won't learn how to spell it or use it correctly. They won't know what they're missing, either, if they rarely read formal English that's been edited to fix general goofiness.

And eventually some of these people are going to become writers who have good ideas and enjoy expressing themselves but don't necessarily use language properly or spell everything perfectly.

There's even a mini-trend in book publishing toward writing guides for people who fear and dread English grammar but who want to work for or are already employed by print and new media publishers. Editors of 20 years' standing may find themselves almost apologizing for the existence of annoying rules that beginners have never heard of.

Decrying the trend won't help. There's no use wishing that your favorite college senior would read more classics and watch fewer movies. I can testify that those of us who teach university courses do our best to show students why correct spelling and usage matter—they make messages recognizable—but there are students of all ages who don't always...listen.

Tin cans, strings, and obfuzzcation

Remember the way kids once sent messages through tin cans connected by string? They had to use contextual clues to make sense of distortions and fragments of speech patterns—not so much reading between the lines as reading sense into them. That's the same way nonreading listeners guess at orthography, which is "the art...of correct spelling according to established usage" and "a method of representing the

Rare Semicolons, Good Editors, Evil Managers

From reader Carol Hanrahan by e-mail:

I know that it's correct to use either an em dash or a colon to set off a phrase or clause that follows a main clause. But could you give me a hard-and-fast rule about when to use a semicolon versus an em dash to join two clauses? It seems like more em dashes are used these days in place of semicolons.

The Eye replies: A good discussion of such distinctions can be found in the New York Public Library Writer's Guide to Style and Usage, written by EEI Communications editors. The semicolon, unlike the colon or em dash, equally weights the two clauses it joins. It creates an alignment of two grammatically independent but syntactically related clauses. Neither clause is emphasized; each needs the other for full meaning, though.

The em dash is more dramatic and (not coincidentally) considered more informal, highlighting the material that follows it—the end of a sentence is a position of emphasis. An em dash can set material off either as a significant aside or as a key point. The writer decides whether the second clause should be weighted as more or less important than the first one.

We agree with you that people seem to shy away from using semicolons between clauses. Sentences set up with two strong halves are more likely to be created by stylists who consciously care for cadence and inflection. Most of us tend to use a period to keep sentences to one main thought—probably not a bad idea most of the time. But sometimes the semicolon comes in handy; it's half of a one-two punch, and we should remember that it's available.

From S. Robert Powell, editor, ICS Learning Systems, Scranton, PA:

As to whether editorial contributions matter (Eye to Eye, February 1998): They do. When a text leaves an editor, it is (hopefully) clear, concise, and readable. In most cases, it was not in that state when it arrived. An editor always has a clear picture of before-and-after-editing states. Many an author regards the effectively edited manuscript as an exact copy of the original text. In a bizarre sort of way, that kind of authorial misconception is an implicit compliment to the editor who, having done his or her job well, is everywhere present but nowhere visible in the text.

And regarding the use of says and said with dialogue: Using the present tense to establish the narrative frame in which to report [past] direct discourse is a splendid example of the direct influence of street-speak on the written language. On the street, of course, the present tense reigns supreme. There, depth in time, established by an effective use of verb tenses, is virtually unheard of. An unsophisticated use of the you-are-there present tense ("I says to this guy you're wrong and he says you're wrong and the next thing you know he punches me and we go at it") reigns.

I always look forward to the arrival of The Editorial Eye. Three cheers for the human mind.

From a reader who asked to remain anonymous in the interest of maintaining professional ties with others in the same editing community:

Re the On the Job column in your March issue, I have a horror story to share. I took the five steps recommended before leaving my job as editor at an environmental consulting company. In the end I couldn't tolerate the irony (and hypocrisy) of being urged to work as a team when the corporate culture forced us to be anything but that.

The manager of my group routinely played favorites; nitpicking the work of those who were not in the inner circle was just one divisive technique for destroying the team. When any lapses whatsoever, however understandable, by the rest of the team are seen as opportunities for advancement by the select few, that's a toxic environment.

A company that fails to recognize that its management not only allows but rewards backstabbing deserves to lose its workforce, and eventually it will.

You're probably thinking paranoia sure runs to absurd heights with this reader, but after nearly a year away from that company I still have not managed to shake it off. My hope is that upper management will read your article on toxic managers and realize that profound changes must be made for the sake of the hapless editors who still work there. Thank you for providing us with a forum for venting our concerns! ♦

Mr. David L. Dorworth, Chief
Site Selection & Environmental Review Branch
Federal Bureau of Prisons
320 First Street, N. W.
Washington, DC 20534

Dear Mr. Dorworth:

In accordance with your request at the conclusion of the meeting on May 23, 2000 between the Federal Bureau of Prisons and consulting parties to consider the adverse effects of the construction of the proposed U. S. Penitentiary in Canaan Township, Wayne County, PA, the Carbondale Historical Society and its affiliate, the D&H Transportation Museum and Research Center, have established the following list of possible remedies which, if the proposed penitentiary is constructed, will mitigate, in part, the irreparable damage that will invariably be wrought to the roadbed of the Honesdale branch of the D&H Railroad between Farview and Waymart:

- Research, write, and publish a comprehensive monograph on the D&H Gravity Railroad and Canal and the Honesdale branch of the D&H Railroad. This would be done by and under the direction of S. Robert Powell, president of the Carbondale Historical Society. Estimated cost: $50,000.
- Produce a complete video documentation of the extant roadbed of the Honesdale branch of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad between Carbondale and Honesdale. Historical text, direction, and narration for this documentary will be provided by the Carbondale Historical Society and a consortium of historical societies and organizations. Estimated cost: $7,500.

- Stabilize and restore the only extant D&H Gravity Railroad combination freight/passenger car, which is now in the collection of Carbondale Historical Society. Phase I: Construct concrete platform on which to place car and erect protective canopy and shell around railroad car. Phase II: Restoration of railroad car. Estimated cost: $18,000.
- Create and produce D&H educational materials (photo enlargements, posters, slide programs, facsimile reproductions, brochures, scale models, and maps) to be used in school programs and public presentations to tell the story of the D&H. Estimated cost: $7,500.
- Produce and erect ten D&H historical markers along the roadbed of the rail line between Carbondale and Honesdale. Identification of appropriate historic sites and formulation of texts for markers to be completed by the Carbondale Historical Society. Estimated cost: $9,000.
- Prepare for microfilming and have microfilmed D&H documents now in the collection of the Carbondale Historical Society and the D&H Transportation Museum and purchase a microfilm reader/printer. Estimated cost: $24,000.

The Carbondale Historical Society and its affiliate, the D&H Transportation Museum, are now actively engaged in preserving, interpreting, and presenting to the public the history of the Delaware and Hudson Gravity Railroad and Canal and the Honesdale branch of the D&H.

The significance of the D&H rail system between Carbondale and Honesdale in the technological, cultural, economic, and social history of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the region can not be overstated. During the 102 years of their operation, tens of millions of tons of anthracite coal and other goods were shipped to market over this rail line.

From the very beginning, the D&H prospered. And because the D&H prospered, the entire region served by the railroad prospered. In addition, the industrial development of the city of New York and portions of southern New England, beginning in the third decade of the nineteenth century, was fueled, literally, and, therefore, made possible by the anthracite coal that was shipped by rail from Carbondale, via Farview and Waymart, over the D&H to Honesdale, and from there, via the D&H Canal, to market.

This important engineering, cultural, and social history must be preserved, interpreted, and saved for all future generations.

Sincerely yours,

S. Robert Powell, President

Enclosed are copies of all of the published issues (Volume I, Number 1, August 15, 1979 through Volume IV, Number 1, August 18, 1982) of the historical quarterly Northeastern Pennsylvania. Please accept them with our compliments.

We were recently presented with two complete sets of all of the issues of this quarterly, which was published here in Carbondale. Given the regional importance of the publication in the history of Pennsylvania, it seems appropriate that the State Library of Pennsylvania have a complete set for its archives.

Dear Robert and Donald,

We were interested to learn that the Moosie Grange was meeting in May. I'm sorry that we couldn't attend, but we have too many doctors' appointments.

We are trying to schedule them so that we can be up in the mountains the last 2 weeks of this month as our daughter, Jean, and family are coming up from North Carolina. If you are planning a meeting then, we will try to attend.

We have to make NJ our permanent address so we can be near our children as we need help.

We wish the Grange good luck.

Funds OK'd for D&H, Mine Historic Plans

BY BORYS KRAMCZENIUK
THE SCRANTON TIMES

The state will supply a lot of the money for a railroad museum dedicated to the Delaware & Hudson Railroad and a historic site that will show a slice of the life of a coal miner.

The State Transportation Commission approved a $50,000 grant Thursday for the Carbondale Historical Society's plans for the railroad museum and a $52,000 grant toward Archbald's plans to acquire coal mine-related buildings for the historic site.

It also approved a $275,000 grant for Historic Preservation Group Inc. to help restore the former Central Railroad of New Jersey freight station on Lackawanna Avenue in Scranton.

Businessman Jerry Donahue plans to convert the station into a restaurant and office space.

Historical society President S. Robert Powell said the grant is wonderful news, even if it is only about half what it requested. The D&H Transportation Research Center will be in two rooms of the society's museum on the third floor of Carbondale City Hall, Dr. Powell said.

The rooms currently store the museum's collection of hundreds of documents and artifacts from the D&H. The money will be used to renovate the rooms and set up appropriate display cases, among other things.

The D&H, the nation's first commercially successful railroad, was established by two Philadelphia men, William and Morris Wurts. They opened the D&H in 1829 with a rail line to Honesdale to get coal to larger markets, Dr. Powell said.

"I think it will be an impressive museum and we're very excited about our proposal to do it," he said.

The museum will be developed over the next two years.

Archbald borough manager Fred Donnini said the borough plans to match its $52,000 grant with $13,000 in borough money to acquire a former coal-mine shower house, two adjacent buildings and 1½ to 2 surrounding acres. Miners bathed in the shower house before heading home, he said.

The borough hopes to get other grants to renovate the station and turn it into a historic site. The land is along the route of the Steamtown National Historic Site excursions and might be good for a picnic grove, he said. The project should take a couple of years to complete, Mr. Donnini said.

Mayor portraits will be unveiled in ceremony at City Hall May 28

The unveiling will take place in City Council Chambers of three more portraits of mayors of Carbondale. The ceremonies, sponsored by the Carbondale Historical Society, will take place on Sunday, May 28, at 2 p.m. The master of ceremonies will be the Historical Society's president, Dr. S. Robert Powell. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The three mayors whose portraits will be unveiled in these ceremonies are: J. W. Kilpatrick (1898-1902), J. J. O'Neill (1902-1905), and Joseph Vadella (1996-1997).

These portraits will become a part of the permanent exhibition of mayors' portraits in Council Chambers. The exhibition curator is Joseph Pascoe, the treasurer of the Historical Society.

Portraits of 19 of Carbondale's mayors already are on display in Council Chambers, including a photographic reproduction of an oil painting by J. W. Raught of the city's first mayor, James Archbald.

This painting is an oil on canvas that was copied by Raught from a painting by Elliott, dated 1845. The Raught painting of James Archbald was presented to the city of Carbondale by James Archbald's daughter, Mary Wodrow Archbald Catlin.

History, tourism get a boost from state

The Carbondale Historical Society plans to open a railroad museum and Archbald borough plans to acquire old coal mine-related buildings to create a historical site with state grants approved Thursday.

The State Transportation Commission approved a $50,000 grant for a museum to the Delaware & Hudson Railroad and a $52,000 grant for Archbald's historical site.

The commission also approved a $275,000 grant for the Historic Preservation Group Inc. to help restore the former Central Railroad of New Jersey freight station on Lackawanna Avenue in Scranton.

Businessman Jerry Donahue plans to convert the station into a combination of a restaurant and office space.

Historical society President S. Robert Powell said the grant is wonderful news, even if it is only about half what the society requested. The D&H Transportation Research Center will be in two rooms of the society's museum on the third floor of Carbondale City Hall, Dr. Powell said.

The rooms currently just store the museum's collection of hundreds of documents and artifacts from the D&H. The money will be used to renovate the rooms and set up appropriate display cases, among other things.

Other local projects approved by state transportation panel

Six counties to share funds for everything from roadside landscaping to recreation trails to railroad exhibits.

Here is a list of the other local projects, their sponsors and the amount of federal money approved for them by the State Transportation Commission, which met Thursday in Plains Township.

The federal money represents 80 percent of the cost. The local sponsors must come up with the other 20 percent.

● Taylor — establish a gateway to the borough with flowers, trees, antique-looking lighting and benches, $84,000.

● State Department of Transportation — plants along interstates and primary roads in Moosic, Scranton, Clarks Summit and Carbondale, $84,000.

● Lackawanna Heritage Valley Authority — construction of three Lackawanna River Trail segments, a total of 6½ miles, in Taylor, Throop, Archbald and Jermy, $90,000.

● Carbondale — landscape improvements to the Pioneer Train Station/Carbondale City Hall corridor, $51,000.

● Luzerne County — construction of a 1.8-mile trail from Pittston to Jenkins Township, $25,000.

● Susquehanna Warrior Trail Council, Luzerne County — construction of an 18.5-mile trail along former railroad tracks from Larksville to Salem Township, $661,000.

● Silver Lake Township, Susquehanna County — Quaker Lake Dock Area Improvement, improving drainage channels and installing catch basins along Barney Road to reduce erosion and sedimentation and to improve water quality, $21,000.

● Susquehanna Depot, Susquehanna County — sustainable streets project, $62,000.

● Hawley-Lake Wallenpaupack Chamber of Commerce — Wayne County, Hawley Station, installation of a handicapped-accessible trail platform adjacent to rails once used by the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, $38,000.

● Wayne County Chamber of Commerce — Gravity Railroad and D&H Canal exhibit hall improvements, $30,000.

● Laceyville Borough, Wyoming County — gateway project, grading, landscaping, plants, curbs, antique-looking streetlights and other improvements, $91,000.

● Tunkhannock Borough, Wyoming County — pedestrian safety and enhancement program, new lighting, sidewalks, curbs, trees and underground utilities, $100,000.

● Milford Borough, Pike County — landscaping, signs, crosswalks, curbs and other amenities in Milford Square and adjacent to Routes 6 and 209, $222,000.

● United States Forest Service, Pinchot Institute, Pike County — construction of a visitors pavilion highlighting the contribution of former Gov. Gifford Pinchot to transportation, $400,000.

Vadella's face to grace wall

BY MICHAEL SADOWSKI / REGIONAL STAFF WRITER

Many Carbondale residents are used to seeing Joseph Vadella's face in pictures. Just not like this.

The former Carbondale mayor, who left office in 1997 after being charged with election fraud, is one of three former mayors who will be immortalized at a special ceremony on Sunday at City Hall.

The ceremony, to be held at 2 p.m. in City Council Chambers, will involve unveiling the portraits of three former mayors.

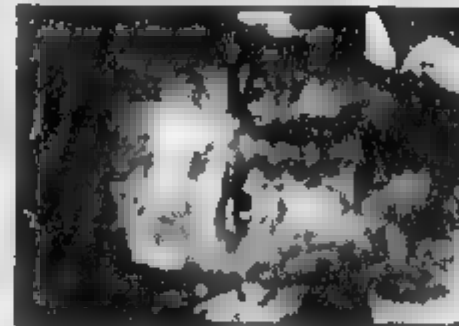

The portraits were actually placed on the walls on May 13, but will be officially unveiled on Sunday.

With the new three pictures, a total of 25 of the city's 41 mayors will have had their portraits on display in council chambers.

But of all the portraits, it is tough to find one more controversial than Mr. Vadella's. He spent just one year in prison just before he was convicted of fixing an election for his brother.

Mr. Vadella spent time in prison for the crime, then attempted to run for mayor again in 1999 as a write-in candidate against Frank Grecco and the ultimate winner John Jordan.

After initially appearing to have lost the election, Mr. Vadella claimed victory on a recount. But after a second recount, the Lackawanna County Board of Elections determined Mr. Jordan was the winner.

Mr. Vadella, however, did not give up the fight. He appealed the decision and the case remained in the courts for some time before a final appeal by Mr. Vadella was defeated this month.

Joseph Pascoe, treasurer of the Carbondale Historical Society, said despite any problems Mr. Vadella has had with the city, he served as mayor and deserves to have his likeness on the wall with the other mayors.

"We had no qualms about putting Mr. Vadella's picture on the wall," said Mr. Pascoe. "He was elected by the people, so he needs to be represented."

The historical society places three pictures on the walls of council chambers twice a year, once in the spring and once in the fall. Along with Mr. Vadella, the portraits of J.W. Kirkpatrick, who served from 1898 to 1902, and J.J. O'Neill, 1902-05, will also be unveiled.

This fall, the society plans to display portraits of Mayors Thomas Voyle (1867-69, 1873-74 and 1882-83), William Brennan (1865-66) and Jordan, Mr. Pascoe said.

If the society continues its present schedule, the portraits of all 41 Carbon-dale mayors should be exhibited by spring of 2003.

The society, however, doesn't have official portraits of all its mayors and is hoping there may be some people out there who can help. Although some paintings have been recreated through newspaper photos, the society generally looks for pictures first from family members.

The society, however, cannot find pictures of Mayors A.F. Fey (1928-32) or John T. Loftus (1916-24). The society has asked anyone who may be able to insist in this endeavor to contact the group at

Residents, Historians Lament Impact

BY KAY SIMPSON
THE SCRANTON TIMES

WAYMART — Federal Bureau of Prisons representatives and their consultant met with area historians and concerned citizens Tuesday night to discuss the impact on historical property at the proposed U.S. penitentiary site in Canaan Township.

Among those invited were representatives of the Waymart Historical Society, Wayne County Historical Society, Farview Tracks to Trails and the Organization of Concerned Citizens.

Kay Simpson, an archaeologist with the bureau's consulting firm, conceded that there would be adverse effects on the railroad bed of the Honesdale branch of the D&H Railroad and on the farm complex of the old Farview State Hospital.

'This is the site where the Bureau of Prisons has decided to build the prison. Avoidance is not an option the bureau will consider.'

DAVID CORWORTH

Both would be demolished or removed from prison property.

Several people, including Mary Farley of Farview Tracks to Trails, Grace DeFina of the Organization of Concerned Citizens and Joseph Grimaud, an attorney hired by that organization, asked the bureau to reconsider its siting decision by avoiding the historic property altogether.

This is the site where the Bureau of Prisons has decided to build the prison," David Corworth, the bureau's site selection chief, replied. "Avoidance is not an option the bureau will consider."

About two hours into the meeting, Robert Nardi of the Louis Berger Group, the bureau's consultant, distributed a pamphlet and some educational material as an example of historical mitigation projects from other prison sites.

"Why would we want a booklet when we have the actual thing, when we can bring our children here to see it for themselves?" asked Denise Malloy, co-chairwoman of the Organization of Concerned Citizens.

There were other mitigation proposals on the bureau's agenda, but they were not described.

Dr. S. Robert Powell, president of the Carbondale Historical Society, called the bureau's suggested mitigation measures "woefully inadequate."

He told how "destroying the rail beds is like kicking us in the stomach. For about four years we've been moving toward constructing a D&H Transportation Museum. This would be a serious loss to us as an organization."

Finally, Rodney D. Brown, a trustee of the Wayne County Historical Society, who also called the bureau's decision process incomplete, listed some possible compensations. Highlights were:

- Reconstruction of a complete and adequate rail bed to provide a continuous trail.

- Completion of a Waymart Area Historical Society project to restore the D&H Gravity Railroad station.

- Completion of a project to restore or replicate an 1870s D&H Canal Co. Gravity Railroad car and construct a pavilion to house it.

- Set aside part of the railroad right of way for a public park with trail connections to Waymart and White's Crossing rail-trails.

- Purchase of equivalent land to replace farmland lost from the Farview Farm Complex and moving an existing farm building there to create a museum.

Calling their positions far apart, the Wayne County Historical Society's Harry Hillier conceded that "if mitigation is our only choice," the bureau's assistance would be accepted in trying to achieve these and other goals.

Local residents decry plan that would wreck old rail sites

For the first two hours of a face-to-face negotiating session Tuesday night between Federal Bureau of Prison representatives and concerned citizens, including area historians, there was no negotiating.

The meeting in Waymart had been called by the bureau and its consultant to discuss ideas for mitigating the adverse impact on historical property at the proposed prison site in Canaan Township.

ROOSTER POT HANGER

The Winterthur collection includes many examples of wrought-iron tools and other objects used in American homes of the past. Such objects range from simple kitchen hooks to ornate weather vanes. The scrolled designs and rooster motifs on this pot hanger are traditional decorative forms, seen on a magnificent wrought-iron weathervane at Winterthur.

This pot holder is welded by hand of hand-forged parts and hand-cut characters. For indoor use only.

Once again,-- I am pleased to serve as your clipping service.

I leave next Thursday, June 1 for my European adventure and am enclosing contact information -- just in case. We fly to London on American Airlines flight 132, departing at 9:10 pm from JFK. We'll be in stateroom 6050 on the R-6 from June 2 until June 17. Our return flight leaves from Stockholm at noon on June 17 (Ward Airways flight 8403)

Although I'm looking forward to the adventure, I wish we had more time in each port. It seems that all we'll be able to do is a quick city tour before we pull on to the next port. Ah well! At least I can claim to have been in Estonia!

If you feel the NEED TO WEED feel free to come to Germyn. Weather and time constraints have won and the Spring Weeding is way behind schedule

See you when I get back.

Mom's birthday, 1913. She died 8 months ago. A lot has happened since then. In some respects, it seems longer ago than 8 months. During the final years of her life and since her death, I have handled all her financial and household affairs. It is I, also, who have done all the in-house cleaning and organizing and "sorting through" her work. A lot has been accomplished, but there is a lot more to do. Preparing and filing her estate papers and probating her will took several months. I have learned a lot from having handled Mom's final years and I am determined to get my "work" organized and in order so that anyone who looks after my estate will have an easy job.

Spent a lot of time today thrashing about with the NPJP matter for the APA. More to be done tomorrow and next week.

also spent several pleasant hours putting up pictures in my room at the top of the stairs. Lots of poultry-related (the & originals by Constantin (Koster) Rodko, who was a good friend of mine during my New York years. Slowly but surely I am getting my room in order — it's a big job, but I am determined to keep at it until the job is done. Doing a little every day is the only way to make the "mountain" go away.

6/29/00 - p. 3

My vegetable-flower garden above the grey-barn foundation is coming along nicely. I noted the first tomato blossoms a couple of days ago. The sunflowers, pumpkins, Cosmos, and ^{gourds +} Cleome are growing nicely. Hypple poppies and white field daisies now in full bloom. Road lilies just starting to bloom. Delphiniums have been beautiful.

All is well in the poultry barn: I should have some very beautiful Silver-Penciled Rock pullets for the Fall & winter shows; perhaps some good Black orpingtons. And, of course, there are lots of very nice Narragansett turkeys here—about 30 young birds. There are about 20 fertile ^{turkey} eggs (Narragansett hens X White Holland Tom) under various setters.

also, six peafowl eggs - which are fertile. Regrettably, the pea-hen has broken about 5 of her eggs, either by laying them against the side of the feed dish or, worse, ^{laying} from the perch about 10 feet in the air. About a week ago, I saw that she was about to lay an egg when she went up to the perch. I went in and stood under the perch and waited. Miraculously, I was able to catch the egg when she laid it. She laid one tonight from the perch and I was not around to catch it. What a shame to lose such precious eggs! I think she should probably be confined on days when she lays.

- ① Picked up ^{today} some color photos that I took of my flower garden a couple of weeks ago, and I must say that they turned out well: lupines, iris, delphinium, rhododendron. I am very pleased.
- ② Had my good leather "penny loafers" renewed — new soles and heels — $40; How prices have gone up! But they are beautiful and should last me a long time. New shoes of the same quality would easily cost $80; so I have a new pair of shoes for half price.
- ③ Created a webpage for the Homestead Golf Course today:

< <http://www.crosswinds.net/~homesteadgolf/HGC.htm> >

Donald was very pleased.
Now that the page has been "posited", so to speak, embellishments and enrichments can easily be made.

6/30/00-2

- ④ Went with DWP II to Nevada Bob's and helped him as he bought a new set of golf irons. Very nice experience. He will be a world class golfer one of these days. The possibilities are wonderfully exciting.
- ⑤ Got my poultry bloodtesting report back from Hanisburg today - no avian influenza; but Group B Salmonella in the duck eggs. I don't think that will be a problem. Now I must vaccinate against laryngotracheitis and then treat my birds for worms - and they will then be set for the fall and winter show season.
- ⑥ Tom Fontana from the Carbondale News phoned and wanted to ask me a question about the Martha Stewart story for next week's Carbondale News. On our way to Nevada Bob's, DWP II & I stopped at the News. To my great pleasure — and surprise — the Martha Stewart story is page one, top of the page! That ought to create quite a stir in the local world. The program should be fun. Kathryn Pace phoned tonight about the refreshments: Welsh cookies and lemonade. Martha would approve, I'm sure.

6/30/00-3

It's been quite a day. Enjoyable and productive.

Turkey eggs under Orpington hen will hatch in a day or two. I'm hoping that some of the poulets will be White Hollands (like their father). As to the Heritage/Farm Turkey Census that I just received a couple of days ago, White Hollands are in the category of "very rare" I believe. We shall see what these poulets will be.

Their father is my White Holland tom; their mothers are my Narragansett hens. It's been a couple months since I had a Narragansett tom on the premises, so the White Holland's sperm should be evident in at least some of the poulets.

"Aunt Mehitabel's Silk Shawl

Wife of Erastus Loomis

bro. of Grandfather Loomis

She died very young,

Oct. 18, 1863.

married 1841—

Shawl given to me by Mother"

I could hardly believe my eyes
when I came across this shawl—in a Golden Crown Idaho Potatoes plastic bag—in one of the Circassian Walnut dressers in Mom's room this afternoon.

I was going through Mom's clothes and things and getting rid of un-needed "stuff." This shawl was among some linen tablecloths and napkins. Mabel Muzzy Loomis was my maternal grandmother's paternal grandfather's sister—see PN... 85-p.

2953.

The note was written by Edna Pearl (Loomis) Loomis, who was my maternal grandmother's sister. "Aunt" Edna was given the shawl by her mother, Mary Emma (Squire) Loomis.

I also came across ^(I think) some of Grandma Russell's (ora) tatted doilies & handkerchiefs.
Cousin Peg would know & I'll have to have her take a look at the tatted work.

I also came across three quiets that Mom had from her Aunts Nettie & Jennie, who lived at 35 River Street, Carbondale. These are very old Russell quiets! Such treasures.

What a voyage of discovery in the room in which I now sleep. I went through three dressers, a night stand (cheap; from 14 Darte Avenue), and a dressing table. A large quantity of Mom's clothes I will take to the Salvation Army tomorrow. I put aside two or three of her summer blouses, of which she was very fond. Seeing the blouse again made it almost seem like she were still alive.

7-3-00-p. 4

Retrieved ^{yesterday} a ^{three-level} 3-pot, metal, floral-motif plant stand that I bought some time ago. It was in the cellar. I will put African violets in the 3 pots. Last night and today I painted it a very nice gray green. It's very art nouveau in aspect — and very attractive. I'll keep it in the Circasian bedroom.

In cleaning in my room at the top of the stairs, I came across a bunch of family recipes from someone's 3x5 recipe file. Maybe from some thing Peg was getting rid of? At any rate, the family classic — Lemon Pie — recipe was there. In Mom's hand; a copy of her mother's recipe. Mom was always afraid of the recipe because it is not precise in the amounts it calls for—

"Wet 3 tbsp. cornstarch with cold water, pour boiling water on until right thickness..." I used 4 tbsp of cold water to wet the cornstarch; I used $2\frac{1}{2}$ cups of boiling water to arrive at "the right thickness." I made two pies — and they turned out beautifully. I was very pleased. I'll do it again this summer several times when DWP II is here.

He had a grand time today — he played 60 holes of golf here. He's going to be a wred

7-3-00-p.6

Class golfer very soon. I can hardly wait.

Ten Narragansett poulets hatched ^{today} under a Buff orpington. White / Holland Tom x Narragansett hens = Narragansett poulets. They seem very big & robust, which is not surprising given the fact that it's an outcross.

Roses now very beautiful. I picked a bouquet of 4 different colors of David Austin's New English roses: Othello [Red], Fair Bianca [white], Mary Rose [pink], and Graham Thomas [rich, glistening yellow]. I also took several photos of the rose bouquet. I have the bouquet here in the bedroom and I can smell them now as I write this.

HARFORD FAIR MEETING
LECTURE HALL
JUNE 5, 2000

These minutes were read & approved at the 7/3/00 meeting - which was a covered-dish supper in the dining hall.

Gene Hubbard called the meeting to order announcing that there are 76 days until fair week. The minutes were reviewed and accepted with the following corrections: Fifth paragraph of the May 19 livestock meeting minutes should read - The clip board will be placed on the sheep office door. On the second page the third paragraph should read "Health rules for llamas-no requirement as long as the animals are within the state." A motion was made and seconded that the minutes be approved as corrected.

The Financial Report was reviewed and accepted as presented.

Communications- A thank you note from the Ken Jesse Family for the plant and flowers sent to Eleanor after Ken's death. A letter from the French Azilum Inc. Visitor Center Project was noted. They requested donations to this project. An announcement of April Beeman's marriage was read. Congratulations were given to Bill & Ginny. Gene mentioned that it was Joe & Cheryl's Anniversary.

State President-Ken Adams reported on his last meeting. Many fairs are not incorporated and many do not file Form 990. He also noted that the Charity Bureau rulings are being checked into. Hopefully the fairs will be exempt. Ken has met with his committees and we will have one more day of Convention this year in order to include the seminars and round table discussions needed. We do not have to attend all of the days. This extra day will allow everyone to go to all of the discussions with no conflictions.

Joe Fuller from the Extension Office was introduced. It was the first meeting he had attended and he mentioned he was glad to be there. He has attended the fair every year since he was two weeks old. Joe was welcomed by all.

Elinor and George Fritz were recognized. Elinor had had surgery in the last few weeks and we noted our prayers were with her.

Benchmark Advertising had produced three tapes for our TV ads last year. The cost is $1000 over the budget given. Frank Supancik made a motion that we do this again this year, Jerry Albeck seconded the motion and it was carried.

Fair Books, posters and brochures are available for all attending to take with them. Please advise the Office where you will be placing them.

New Horse Barn will arrive June 27th. The excavation and the moving of the horse office will have to be done soon.

Matching Funds were discussed. Bill Tyler would like to submit an application for blacktopping every year. The Office Equipment was submitted but denied as it must be a permanent improvement to qualify.

WHWK has presented a second proposal for the month of July and August. This will be considered Livestock Meeting - The minutes of this meeting were available for everyone. Bob Davenport noted that Dr. Kipps will have a radio again this year. She will be on the fair grounds in the morning and again in the late afternoon. A clip board will be on the sheep office door. Dr. Kipps stated she is there to help and was commended for the coverage she gave last summer.

Good Housekeeping Awards will be something useful this year. All superintendents are to see Phyllis after the meeting.

The Queen Committee noted that Susan Gesford writes for the Independent. She would like to write an article on the fair queen program and put it in the edition of Summer Time. Ginny will see that she has the information. Entries were discussed. JoEllen Himka would like to have an application and also a demo application.

July 4th Parade - We will have two units in the parade, both will be horse drawn carriages brought by Bruce Conklin. We will need to be at Andres to decorate by 9:30. One carriage is for the Queen and Alternate, the second carriage for the Directors. Golf shirts will be ordered for the Directors. Usually the day of the parade is very hot and the jackets are too warm. Jerry asked about handing out brochures along the parade route. He will need people to walk and work with him.

Executive Committee Report - We needed materials for the shuttle bus stops in the parking lots. Scott Baldwin has donated 4x4's and uprights for this project. Any repairs or needs in the buildings need to be given to Jerry or Frank S. very soon. Bill Tyler noted he will be gone for 6 weeks. Any water problems are to be reported to Dave Tyler.

Ground clean up will need to be done before the June 24th Tractor Pull. Frank S will need help. Bobbie Powers noted the lodge will be in on June 17th and will trim the grounds.

Old Milk House - The use of this building was discussed. Jeff Page said they have not used the bulk tank for a long time. As there is a great need for showers, they would like to set up several showers in this building. Details are being worked out.

The money raised by the resale of livestock during the 4-H sale on Saturday and donated to the fair is appreciated. We will use some of this for the shower units.

The Goat Department asked about housing the goats in the old horse barn. It was noted that the goats will probably be housed in the middle of this barn.

S. Robert Powell commented on the memorial awards we present in honor of Cecil Rose and the naming of the Poultry Building. At the April meeting Ken Adams gave suggestions for the betterment of fairs. This led to the six strong points Mr. Powell presented:

1. We are friendly and helpful.
2. We are an authentic country fair with a strong agricultural base and a community fair.
3. We are good to our exhibitors and treat them well.
4. We have an area which twists and winds through our grounds, a voyage of discovery not a grid.
5. The fair is a learning experience. You can learn to milk an animal, cane a chair, take care of bees etc. An example is the setting hen who takes care of baby ducks.
6. Exhibits for all ages are presented. Everyone can be challenged with the education presented.

The resignations of Ron Stiles and Morgan and Irene McDonald were presented. They were accepted with regrets.

The rabbit show held a week ago was noted. Cheryl D. had attended and it was a great show. They had a lot of education and allowed the children to pet the rabbits.

Farmer for a Day still needs another couple to work with it during the fair

I'm pleased to report that my comments were very well received by the large crowd at the meeting. I was even given a round of applause!

Alex Scott had received comments from the public concerning the hymn sing and many hope we will have it again next year. He also commented that he has the commercial spots set up and has new exhibitors.

Reserved seating tickets for Loretta Lynn are going very well. Bill and ~~Sue~~ Aiken gave us a report on this area.

New Director - Bill Beeman was introduced and welcomed to the Board of Directors. He is serving out the term of Bob Davenport. Due to health reasons Bob has decided to step down from the Board but will continue on as Superintendent of Swine.

Sponsorship Report- Maralyn Scott noted she has 4 new golf carts coming for use during the fair. Land of Lakes will sponsor the butter sculpture unit which will be on the ground Monday, through Wednesday of the fair. Cheryl Decker asked for all Land of Lakes butter cartons to be given to her. Maralyn has 4 to 6 new benches coming. She was asking for donations toward flags which will be placed at the top of the bleachers as well as along the main roadway. The cost is $14 each.

The meeting was adjourned.

A Directors Meeting followed. Matt Ryan requested to bring in a craft unit on his space. Frank Supancik and Bill Tyler made and seconded a motion denying this request. So carried.

Raise for the Gate Keepers. Hendrick Marr requested that the pay for gate personnel be raised from $5.00 to $5.50. Ken Adams and Jeff Page made and seconded the motion. Motion carried.

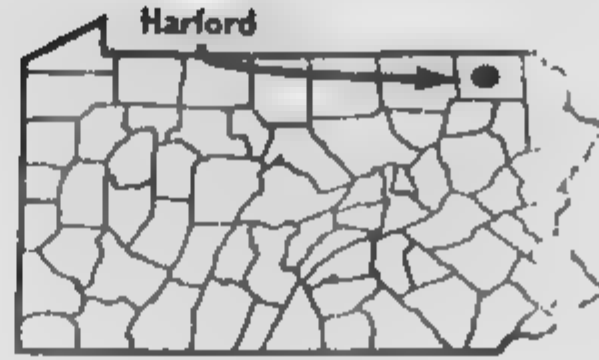

Soda Machines were discussed. The crowds need to have more places to purchase soda. We would need to have a person who will stock these machines and keep an inventory. We will check on the liability. The charge for the soda will be 75 cents.

Frank Supancik asked for a budget to work with for the flowers on the grounds. Bill Beeman and Jerry Albeck made and seconded a motion that Frank be given $500 for this project. Motion carried.

From the walk
article :

How the "Simon Pure" Fair Began

To understand how this fair has retained its wholesome character and survived in these times, an understanding of the history of the village is helpful. Harford was founded in 1790 by nine partners who came from Attleborough, Mass., looking for fresh farmlands. These men purchased a tract of land 4 miles long and one mile wide at $1.33 per acre. They divided the land and soon began the trek through the wilderness to bring their families here and settle. They named this hamlet Nine Partners, which remained until the town was later incorporated as Harford.

The men had brought with them their strong New England Puritan upbringing and values, and this is much in evidence, not just in the origins of the fair, but also in the architecture of the church still standing in the village. The building was erected in 1806 and resembles many of those found in the New England area. The original village cemetery contains six of the Harford founders and their families, as well as one veteran of the French and Indian War and eight from the American Revolution.

In 1865, Harford was home to an Orphans School for Civil War veterans' orphans, one of only 44 such institutions in the state. Of the original 12 buildings on the campus where up to 200 children lived and studied, you can visit the one remaining. The Harford Historical Society hosts a number of events throughout the year at the site, including a picnic in the summertime to honor the descendants of students who attended the school.

Flying Tippler History

In the course of the past two decades, I have assembled what I believe to be an important collection of papers that relate to Flying Tipplers, in general, and to the Flying Tippler Association of America, in particular. For six of those years, it was my pleasure to serve the FTA as an official: 1989: Publicity Director and Central Timer; 1990, Acting Secretary; and 1991-1994, Secretary.

In order to make all of my Flying Tippler papers easier to use and, at the same time, to preserve them and the important history they contain, I arranged these Flying Tippler papers in more or less chronological order and had them microfilmed (28 microfiche cards). In total, there are 1,947 pages of Flying Tippler history on these microfiche cards.

There is a great deal of information in these papers about the Flying Tippler sport, including the complete texts of the four American "Tippler Specials," complete sets of the Bulletins of the Flying Tippler Association of America for over 24 years, and facsimiles of several important and out-of-print monographs on Flying Tipplers. This may well be one of the largest and most complete collections of papers in existence on Flying Tipplers in the United States.

Included in these papers is a wide range of Flying Tippler materials that were lent, made available, or given to me by Stanley Ogozalek (23 Orchard Street, Keyport, NJ 07735), Tom Murphy (11324 Country Club Road, Waynesboro, PA 17268), R. Omer Ogren (Route 1, Box 155, Dike, TX 75437) and Frank O'Neil (1826 South Talbot Road, Oldcastle, Ontario, Canada N0R-1L0). My sincere thanks to each of them for their enlightened generosity and thoughtfulness in making available resources in their collections.

When I had these papers microfilmed, I did so for my private and exclusive use. It occurs to me now, however, that there may be others in the Flying Tippler sport who would like to have a copy of the microfilm edition of these Flying Tippler papers. If you would like to have a copy, I can provide you with one for $20. To read and/or do research in these Flying Tippler papers, go to your local public library and use the microfiche reader there.

2000 GRISWOLD REUNION

Saturday, August 19, 2000

This year's GRISWOLD REUNION will take place on Saturday, August 19, 2000, at the Homestead Golf Course, on Route 106 (between Carbondale and Clifford).

The Reunion will begin at 11:30 A.M., with a registration period. At noon, a covered-dish dinner will be served. Everyone is to bring a covered dish as well as his own table service. If you would like to bring friends with you (even though they are not Griswolds), please feel free to do so.

Following the covered-dish meal, the 2000 Griswold Reunion business meeting will take place.

The second annual GRISWOLD GOLF TOURNAMENT will take place at this year's reunion at the Homestead Golf Course. For information about the golf course and the tournament and about this year's Griswold Reunion, telephone Donald W. Powell (570-282-5197).

We look forward to seeing you.

Second Annual Griswold Open

August 19, 2000

The Homestead Golf Course, site of today's Second Annual Griswold Open, is located on Route 106, three miles west of Carbondale. It was designed and constructed by Walter Silas Powell (01-12-1913 04-20-1994) and Russell Thomas Powell (07-22-1946-01-02-1985), son of Walter and Helen (Russell) Powell.

The Homestead Golf Course is situated on the James and Margaret (Gillespie) Russell homestead, which was established in 1841 and which has been in the family ever since. In the late 1980s, through the efforts of S. Robert Powell, son of Walter and Helen Powell, the Russell Homestead was officially recognized by the commonwealth of Pennsylvania as a Century Farm.

The Homestead Golf Course opened on May 20, 1962. It was operated by Walter and Helen Powell and Russell Powell until 1987, when it was closed. For the period 1962-1972, there were 9 holes; 1973-1974, 14 holes; 1975 on, 18 holes.

On April 27, 1998, Donald W. Powell, son of Walter and Helen Powell, and Donald's son, Donald, reopened the Homestead Golf Course. They continue to operate the course.

The inaugural Griswold Open took place at the Homestead Golf Course on August 10, 1999. The winner of the inaugural Griswold Open was Donald W. Powell II.

It is fitting that the annual Griswold Open should take place on a golf course with direct Griswold connections.

The Ann Landers column in this paper last Saturday included a letter from an ex-GI who served in World War II on Morotai, an island in the South Pacific.

The writer, identified as "W.D. of Beaumont, Texas," said a USO troupe of entertainers stopped at the island to put on a show for the American servicemen.

"The weather was so bad we doubted the show would go on.

In my view

Joseph X.
Flannery

But we had nothing better to do with our time so we piled into a jeep and made our way through a torrential downpour to where the show was scheduled.

"In the best showbiz tradition, the show did go on. A young singer named Wynn Murray was featured. She was not a star like Doris Day but she sang on the Fred Allen radio show and that was her claim to fame.

"We sat in our ponchos and helmet liners, reasonably dry and comfortable, and watched and listened to Miss Murray.

"She was wearing a flimsy evening dress that was soaking wet. Her hair fell down in straight strings, dripping rain. As she held onto the microphone, lightning streaked across the black, tropical sky. Standing alone, high on the stage, she made an ideal lightning rod. Yet, she continued. The guys loved her. She came back for several encores. She was magnificent.

"I have lots of memories of World War II, some good and some bad, and that performance by Wynn Murray is definitely one of the best."

Too late to say thanks

The writer concluded by saying he would like to write to the singer and express his thanks for what she did for the GIs that day on a tiny island in the Pacific.

I have sad news for "W.D." and will pass it on to him via Ann Landers. That singer in the USO troupe, a native of Carbondale who grew up in Scranton, died at 36 of a heart attack on Feb. 6, 1957, at her home at Fort Meade, Md.

Winifred Murray, who shortened her name to "Wynn" when she became a singing star on Broadway, gave up her soaring career to serve four years with the USO during World War II.

I did a little detective work and found Wynn's younger sister, Ann Marie Murray, now Mrs. James Henning, of 202 Farview St., Carbondale, and she provided me with more information on her sister's career.

She told me that when Wynn was singing for American servicemen in Hilandia, New Guinea, Japanese planes attacked and she almost lost her life.

Nearly killed in air raid

When the attack began, Wynn was on stage with the Roxyettes — a dancing troupe akin to the Radio City Music Hall's Rockettes. Two of the dancers were killed but a soldier threw himself atop Wynn and he was killed. However, a piece of shrapnel cut off a bit of her ear — an injury that years later made her tone-deaf, a tragic thing for a singer.

As a result of being wounded during combat, Wynn was one of the few civilians to win a Purple Heart Medal in World War II.

Born in Carbondale, the daughter of the late Joseph and Alice Nevins Murray, she attended St. Rose School in that city. Later, when her parents moved to Scranton, she attended St. Cecelia's Academy.

Wynn was blessed with a great singing voice and beautiful blond hair. A talent scout took her to New York at 16 for a radio audition. She performed on the Major Boles Amateur Hour and won.

Later, Broadway producers Lorenz Hart and Richard Rodgers put her in "Babes in Arms," in which she sang "Where or When," which is still a classic. After that she appeared in the Olson and Johnson productions of "Hellzapoppin'" and "Sons of Fun." She also starred in "The Boys from Syracuse" and several other Broadway plays. In addition, she became a radio star, performing with Bing Crosby on the Kraft Music Hall and on other shows.

Patriotism caused her to sign up with the USO in World War II. In addition to the South Pacific, she toured in Europe and other theaters of operation.

Re-enlisted with USO

After the war she was virtually forgotten, so she signed up again with the USO. While entertaining American troops in Germany, she met and married Army Major William A. Rau and they had three daughters. Only occasionally did she perform. In 1957, she headlined a vaudeville show at the Capitol Theater in Scranton. In the same period, she appeared on the Ed Sullivan television show.

Then came her fatal heart attack and her burial at Arlington National Cemetery in Virginia. For a time, her children stayed with the Henning couple in Carbondale, and two — Kathleen Rosler and Mary Russo — now are widows there, while the third, Alice Rau, is a podiatrist in Germany.

Mr. Rau died a few years ago and is buried with Wynn at Arlington.

While Wynn has been dead 47 years, it's nice to know that World War II veterans, such as "W.D. of Beaumont, Texas," remember her for lifting their morale when they needed it the most.

Mayor Joseph Vadella's portrait added to walls of mayors in Council Chambers

By Tom Flannery

The Carbondale Historical Society unveiled the portraits of three city mayors on Sunday afternoon, May 28, including former mayor Joseph Vadella.

Historical Society president S. Robert Powell told the crowd who attended the unveiling that the first exhibition of mayor portraits was held in 1901. He said the event was held in conjunction with the city's 50th anniversary celebration, when there was "a great burst of civic enthusiasm."

He stated that a second one, organized by Rebecca Colville, was held fifty years later in 1951 for the city's centennial celebration. Indicating the portraits currently hanging in Council Chambers of City Hall, he noted, "Many of these are from that time."

Powell said several portraits from the Rebecca Colville Exhibition "mysteriously disappeared" over the years, explaining that people probably stole them for the frames.

"The lovely portraits that were in them, which are the real treasure, were probably discarded," he offered. "It's a very regrettable loss."

He said the Historical Society has been adding portraits to the collection every few months using photographic enlargements and newspaper line drawings.

"We are especially pleased to unveil Mayor Vadella's portrait because of his connection to this building," Powell stated.

"During the Vadella administration, the clock began working again. That's a very meaningful thing for the Historical Society."

He noted that the Dunfee Family had donated the clock to the city with the stipulation that the family be paid one dollar a day for every day that the clock wasn't working, and the clock was inoperative for decades. About 20 years ago, he recounted that Paul Starzer published an April Fool's Day edition of the Carbondale News featuring a front-page altered photograph of City Hall with the tower falling off it.

"I was living outside of town at the time and that issue had a strong impact on me personally as well as causing quite a stir locally," he recalled. "I remember thinking that this was such a beautiful building and I felt we couldn't lose City Hall."

Powell stated that a citizens group was formed to save the building and get the clock working again, something which he said was very symbolic to everyone involved in the campaign. During that time, he said one of the members would climb to the top of City Hall every year and ring the clock bell as a testament to the group's dedication to their cause.

"We raised $20,000 virtually rattling tin cans on the street corners to get a matching grant and get a roof on the building," he related, "and we're very proud today that this building is still standing."

"We're very grateful to Joe and [his wife] Ann for their help in getting the clock working again," he added.

Vadella told the crowd that it was initially Historical Society treasurer Joseph Pascoe, as his Social Studies teacher at Carbondale Area High School, who got him interested in the city and local government.

"I guess it was just inevitable that one day I was going to try to bring back some of the luster to the city," Vadella commented, stating that he hopes the Historical Society continues to grow and complimenting it for collecting and preserving the mayor portraits. "I'm really, really proud of what they did here. It's something else."

The Historical Society also unveiled the portraits of Mayors Kilpatrick and O'Neill. Powell stated that Kilpatrick served in office from 1898 to 1902 and was mayor during the city's Golden Jubilee in 1901 when an amazing 75,000 people attended Carbondale's week-long 50th birthday bash. He said O'Neill served from 1895 to 1898 and then again from 1902 to 1905. He noted that the Society could not find either of their descendants for the unveiling ceremony.

Powell stated that the mayor portraits project has been "conceived, directed by and inspired by Mr. Pascoe, who has done a wonderful job." He said the next set of portraits will be unveiled at City Hall in October.

Local historian, civic leader S. Robert Powell to recount Martha Stewart's visit to pick bird

By Thomas M. Fontana

good name for an upcoming presentation at the Carbondale Public Library might be —

Birds of a Feather Flock Together.

The subject of the talk by local historian S. Robert Powell refers back a few years to a visit by "Living" legend Martha Stewart. Flocks of Ms. Stewart's fans and followers know that among her many interests is an obsession with the avian world.

That obsession brought them together in 1997 with their fine feathered friends, a result of Mr. Powell's life-long interest in fowl play.

"I grew up on a farm in Fell Twp," Mr. Powell explains. "My father had a large flock of laying hens and raised several hundred turkeys every year for the Thanksgiving and Christmas markets. We also had dairy cattle and many other animals. But the birds always interested me the most."

On the farm, Mr. Powell and his brothers raised chickens, peafowl, exhibition pigeons, ducks, geese and a wide variety of cage birds, including canaries, cockatiels and finches. They entered them in shows at area fairs, such as the Harford Fair and the Wayne County Fair. When they were teenagers, the high quality of their birds led them to larger private shows in other eastern states, where they won many blue ribbons and trophies.

Mr. Powell left the farm for several years for a job in corporate finance at a Wall Street investment banking firm. After resigning that job about 15 years ago, he returned to Northeastern Pennsylvania, where he began raising a flock of poultry and became a member of the Central Pennsylvania Avian Club (CPAC).

"The CPAC is a group of exhibition poultry breeders and exhibitors with its headquarters in Bloomsburg," Powell says. "Every year, the CPAC sponsors two private poultry shows, one in the spring and one in the fall. The quality of the birds at private shows is always very high and a win at such a show is a real honor."

In 1996, Mr. Powell suggested that a nationally known celebrity associated with poultry be invited to the spring 1997 Bloomsburg exhibition to attract some recognition. A fan of Martha Stewart, Powell knew that she is not only a chicken breeder, but also features her birds and their eggs in her numerous enterprises, such as cookbooks, her magazine "Martha Stewart Living," and on her weekly t.v. program.

"More than one of my colleagues looked at me like I was crazy," Mr. Powell recalls, "but I wrote her a letter inviting her to the exhibition as a judge and to select the most beautiful bird in the show."

Martha Stewart, with the bird, and S. Robert Powell

Ms. Stewart accepted Powell's invitation, and he met her at 6 a.m. at the Wilkes-Barre/Scranton Airport on May 3, 1997, the day of the show.

"The 90-minute ride from the airport to Bloomsburg, and the ride back at the end of the day were memorable, to say the least," Mr. Powell says. "She is highly intelligent, focused, articulate and charming. We talked about everything from exhibition poultry to Egyptian architecture to astronomy to nineteenth century literature to formal gardens. With her quick and vast retention of information, it's easy to understand why she's the success she is."

Footage that the "Martha Stewart Living" film crew shot at the exhibition as she picked the most beautiful bird was later edited into a 30-minute television program broadcast on "Martha Stewart Living" on September 18, 1997. It was so popular, that it was re-broadcast two more times.

Mr. Powell will share his recollections of his day with Martha Stewart during a 45-minute program at the Carbondale Public Library on Wednesday, July 12, at 7 p.m. Mr. Powell is a familiar local spokesman, having served on the library Board of Directors since 1983 and as president of the Carbondale Historical Society. He is also a poultry superintendent at the annual Harford Fair, is licensed by the American Poultry Association to judge poultry in exhibitions in eastern states, and is recognized by the association as a master breeder and grand master exhibitor of standard Partridge Plymouth Rocks.

"I have over 200 birds now, which includes a dozen different kinds of chickens, Narragansett and White Holland turkeys, guinea fowl, muscovy ducks, and mute swans," Mr. Powell says. His brother Donald, who owns the Homestead Golf Course in Fell Twp., raises peafowl and reversewing pouters.

(By the way, Ms. Stewart picked a White Crested Blue Polish bantam hen as the most beautiful bird at the show. It will be interesting to see how S. Robert Powell explains a bird with six names plus an ethnic background, and Martha Stewart, in just 45 minutes.)

Martha Stewart... visit talk subject

A visit by life-enthusiast Martha Stewart to the Central Pennsylvania Avian Club spring poultry show in Bloomsburg in 1997 will be the subject of a presentation by local historian S. Robert Powell, who shares Ms. Stewart's interest in poultry exhibitions and who invited her to the event in Bloomsburg. Ms. Stewart's visit to Bloomsburg was aired on her television show, "Martha Stewart Living." Powell's 45-minute presentation will be offered free to the public at the Carbondale Public Library on Wednesday, July 12 at 7 p.m., followed by refreshments. Dear Mr. Barber:

At a meeting of the D&H Transportation Heritage Council on Wednesday of this week at Port Jervis, Sandy Schultz of the National Park Service showed the group a draft of your D&H Canal Guide.

Congratulations on a job well done. The detailed information that you present on the locks in question is very interesting and useful and constitutes an important contribution to the history of the entire D&H transportation system.

In Carbondale at the present time, the Carbondale Historical Society is establishing a D&H Transportation Museum on the third floor of Carbondale City Hall. We would very much like to have a copy of your D&H Canal Guide as a reference work for our library. We recognize and understand that the material in your work is your intellectual property and will not make copies of your work for anyone without your permission.

Sincerely,

S. Robert Powell

Subject: Solstice Sojourn

Hi Robert et al,

I don't know if any plans have been made yet regarding the solstice luncheon we've been discussing, but I just wanted to let you know that Jeff and I are thinking of going to NYC this coming weekend (6/17-18), for an actual drive-in,

stay at my mom's overnight trip. He actually has both days off for a change. So we won't be around for any picnics this weekend. Unless we change our minds, in which case we will be. But anyway, let's not make things too complicated.

The following Saturday, though, looks OK (6/24). I don't know if he gets any time off for July 4th or not; I imagine if he does it'd be on the actual 4th and not any other day that weekend, as Sears probably has a sale going. I don't have any other gatherings that I know of that weekend.

Thoughts?

PS--Moscow! Rah!

PPS--Have you seen Chicken Run yet? In theaters near you.

Beth

Subject: RE: Solstice Sojourn

Greetings to Kindred Spirits (including Carl) one and all:

June 24th would be fine with me and so would July 4th. I think I'm more inclined to go with June 24th, probably because it's closer to the actual Summer Solstice and because July 4th gets too complicated with family commitments all around.

The day could begin at about 11 A.M. with a tour of the flower gardens and the poultry barn, a visit with the swans and the cows, etc. We could then all take a walk through the summer fields, along the babbling brook, through the woods, and up the somewhat-steep hill to Merli-Sarnoski Park (a very nice county park that adjoins our property). At Merli-Sarnoski, we could picnic, swim, commune with nature, relax.

Before we begin our walk up to Merli-Sarnoski, we will drive one vehicle up to Merli-Sarnoski and leave all the picnic stuff in that vehicle. That way, we won't have to carry anything on our walk.

All of this is subject to revision, but this is a rough draft of how I see the day.

Robert

Will someone please relay all of this information to Carl Albright so that he and his family can join this merry band of summer revelers if they are available.

Sounds good to me. I'll be sure to bring plenty of DEET. And sunscreen.

Are you envisioning a potluck kind of affair, or are you planning to whip up a masterful culinary feast, a la Martha?

Thanks, Beth, for relaying the note, and thanks, Robert, for the invitation. I wish we could go on any of those dates. However, the next few weekends are pretty well tied up.

(This weekend we have friends from Alaska visiting. Next week [6/24 to 7/1], Chris, the boys, and I are planning to stay in idyllic Avalon NJ. Then, on 7/4, Chris will be directing the Pleasant Mount chorus, in which I am but a lowly tenor.)

Thanks again for thinking of me, and please keep me posted on plans of future fun. Many of the other weekends this summer are still open.

Carl

Hi, Kindred Soul!

I've marked the date on my calendar. It sounds like a fun day. We need to get together for a lunch meeting to discuss food, etc. Are you available on Friday (June 16th)? If so, give me a call. Ginger will be out of town but I'm sure the others will want to meet for lunch. If not, perhaps one day next week. I will be out on Thursday (June 22nd).

Hi, Robert,

The 24th sounds good to me. Let me know what I need to bring. Also, is Annmarie invited on this picnic? Can Paul come if he isn't scheduled to work?

I'm leaving tomorrow for NYC to see the Lion King with my Mom and three sisters. I plan on hanging out in the Met. Museum of Art should the weather be poor. A little dinner somewhere and the show. Back home by Friday night.

Hope all is well. Have a good weekend.

As always, Ginger

Directions to Robert Powell's house:

Route 81 North to exit 62 (Tompkinsville).

Turn right onto Route 107 and go about 5 miles (up and down and over and around) to a stop sign--where Route 107 intersects with Route 247.

Turn left onto Route 247 and go about 3 miles to a flashing red light--where Route 247 intersects with Route 106.

Turn right onto Route 106 (heading in the direction of Carbondale), and go about one mile. I live at the Homestead Golf Course, which is on the left.

You can park on the inner drive in front of the house (under the trees) or in either the upper or lower golf course parking lots.

See you Saturday about 11 A.M.

Thursday, June 22nd

Ginger and Bev:

Directions to Robert's:

Up Route 6 into Carbondale. Turn left at the Turkey Hill. This will put you on River Street. Go straight for three or four blocks until you come to some railroad tracks. Bear to the left at the tracks and go up a little hill by Mount Carmel Church. Keep going straight and, before you know it, you'll be out in the country (on Route 106 West). Go about three miles, and you will see a Homestead Golf Course sign. That's where I live. Park on the inner drive in front of the house if you like (where it's shady) or in either of the golf course parking lots.

In the event you should travel up Route 81 North, get off at Exit 62 (Tompkinsville). Turn right on 107 and go about five miles to the stop sign at the intersection of 107 and 247. Turn left on 247 and go about three miles to the flashing red light at the intersection of 247 and 106. Turn right onto 106 (heading towards Carbondale). Go one mile. The Homestead Golf Course is on the left.

See you on Saturday at about 11 A.M.

Dear Robert,

When Summer Solstice arrives again I will think of it as a day for adventure and fun with friends.

Thank you for a wonderful day! We toured through museum quality furniture, glassware, photographs and memorabilia. We observed and photographed prize winning poultry and livestock. We climbed a mountain and to my surprise I did not have an ache or pain the next day, perhaps that is because we rested and indulged in a delicious picnic lunch. I was wondering if that is what Thoreau's Walden Pond was like only smaller?

With each adventure of our "cultural group" I wonder what we can do to top it. I guess it's the friendship more than the adventure that makes each "get-together special.

Looking forward to what we have planned next and have a great day, am

Good Morning,

I survived "the mountain." I woke up on Sunday feeling a little stiff but wonderful. Perhaps I need to trek more often.

I just wanted you to know how much I enjoyed our tour of the gardens and trek up the mountain. I don't know when I've had more fun. It was a special day. You and Donald have a lovely home. Thanks for sharing it with us.

Looking forward to our next adventure.

杏仁豆腐粉 ALMON* DoFu®

製作方法:

- ①用杏仁豆腐粉一包，加清水三碗半（28安或875毫升），攪拌，煮滾。
- ②熄火後加鮮奶一杯半（12安或375毫升），再攪拌，倒入盛皿中，凝固即成。食用時加上水果粒，則更加美觀可口。
- ③稍冷後，放入雪櫃中，凝固即成。食用時加上水果粒，則更加美觀可口。

DIRECTIONS: Mix contents of this box with 3 1/2 cups (28 fl. oz.) of water. Stir and heat to boil. Turn off heat. Add 1 1/2 cups (12 fl. oz.) of milk and mix well. Cool to room temperature and chill in refrigerator until set. Serve as is or top with fresh or canned fruits for a delightful treat.

Touillez les contenus de cette boîte avec 3 1/2 tasses d'eau. Remuez et échauffez jusqu'à il soit bouillir. Fermez la chaleur. Ajoutez 1 1/2 tasses (12 fluide once) de lait et mélangez bien. Rafraîchissez à température de la pièce et rapécifiez au frigidaire jusqu'à fixe. Servez comme ça ou couvrez avec des fruits frais ou conservés pour un goût délicieux.
